Catherwood Library,1996 Structural Reforms Without Prejudices Tito Boeri,Micael Castanheira,Riccardo Faini,Vincenzo Galasso,2006-06-15 Our economies face constant challenges from many different directions Structural reforms are implemented every day either to grasp the benefits of globalization and technological change or to avoid foundering on unaffordable welfare systems or the rise of new economies Despite this flurry of reforms many of their effects are insufficiently understood What makes reforms a success or a failure Why do we witness systematically ambivalent attitudes to reforms Can governments implement reforms differently without inflicting prejudice to large fringes of the population This book explores these issues by comparing a number of reforms across a large set of countries and sectors First through an innovative multisectorial input output analysis the authors compare the effects of liberalisation reforms in the telecommunication and electricity sectors across Europe Surprisingly they find that very similar and well intended reforms can generate highly contrasted outcomes It is also shown that governments must consider the effects of each reform on all sectors of the economy Second the authors explore how governments can tailor their reform strategy to alter the redistributive effects of reforms They show that the government s approach to reforms has been very different across time and across countries A government s approach depends on local institutions on the nature of the opposition and on the scope of the reform under way The authors however show that governments do have alternatives Often there are ways to tailor reforms so as to protect specific parts of the population and there are ways to experiment gradually to avoid costly policy mistakes
