Perspectives on Arabic Linguistics XXVIII Youssef A. Haddad,Eric Potsdam,2016-05-25 This volume makes important contributions to the growing body of descriptive and theoretical studies in Arabic linguistics It focuses on the rich linguistic work being done on Arabic dialects The papers on individual dialects draw attention to the micro variation that exists emphasize that they do not comprise a uniform group and reveal the implications of dialectal variation for linguistic theory The chapters are distributed over three parts phonetics and phonology syntax and sociolinguistics They address first and second language acquisition historical linguistics phonetics aspects of negation light verb constructions raising verbs and sociolinguistic variation The book is indispensable reading for those working in dialect description the analysis of Arabic and the Semitic languages and linguistic theory more generally

Interlanguage Error Analysis: an Appropriate and Effective Pedagogy for Efl Learners in the Arab World Muhammad Khan Abdul Malik,2020-05-31 First of all the author wants to make it crystal clear that the present work is of a great benefit both for the English and Arab learners of the target language either Arabic or English This edition of the book pinpoints previous researchers findings regarding English and Arabic phonological morphological and syntactic similarities and differences and how all these differences result in mistakes and errors by the Arab learners of English in their learning process These mistakes or errors are unconsciously or involuntarily made by Arab learners of English due to the differences between the system and sub systems of the two languages The present attempt is the result of my realization as an English language teacher as to how a teacher can minimize students difficulties in learning of English and maximize their knowledge skills and competency of English as a foreign or second language This is the first edition The work is pedagogically oriented and primarily intended to make teaching learning of English as a foreign second language a bit easy especially for the first year university students of English language in the Arab world Gulf area such as KSA UAE Kuwait and the Middle East Area such as Jordan Syria Lebanon and so on The focus is on phonetic and morpho syntactic variations in Arabic and English languages This area of research becomes more interesting through the assumptions i information about the differences and similarities between Arabic and English language is to be supplied at an early stage since this facilitates the students learning task ii the differences are to be presented in pedagogically suitable format iii it is useful to separate and present phonetics morphological and syntactic categories as they function in suitable contexts and not merely abstract notions iv before students may tackle contrastive analysis they should have basic knowledge of Arabic and English languages similarities and differences and v pre modification and post modification of lexical and syntactic structures are to be explained appropriately

Maltese Przemyslaw Turek, Julia Nintemann, 2022-04-04 This volume features nine articles covering various aspects of Maltese linguistics Part I mostly dedicated to the Maltese lexicon opens with Bednarowicz's comparison of Maltese and Arabic adjectives Fabri then categorizes various types of constructions involving the preposition ta of The paper by Lucas and Spagnol discusses Maltese words containing an innovative final n Part II deals with the syntax of Maltese Azzopardi's paper focuses on a construction in Maltese which consists of a sequence of two or more finite verbs Just and pl present the first corpus based study of differential object indexing in Maltese In Part III on morphosyntax Turek analyzes Arabic prepositions in Classical Modern Standard Arabic and Arabic dialects and contrasts them with their Maltese equivalents Stolz and Vorholt then analyze the structural and functional similarities and differences of spatial interrogatives in Maltese and Spanish Vorholt then investigates the adpositions of sixteen European languages including Maltese and examines the relationship between length and frequency The volume is closed with Part IV on phonology and Avram's paper in which the diachrony of voicing assimilation in consonant clusters is reconstructed

Spatial Interrogatives in Europe and Beyond Thomas Stolz, Nataliya Levkovich, Aina Urdze, Julia Nintemann, Maja Robbers, 2017-08-07 The extant generalizations about the grammar of space rely heavily on the analyses of declarative sentences There is a need to check whether these generalizations also hold in the domain of interrogation To this end this book analyzes data from some 450 languages including non standard varieties The focus is on paradigms of spatial interrogatives such as English where whither and whence and their internal organization These paradigms are checked for recurrent patterns of morphological mismatches such as syncretism and different degrees of complexity e.g. the number of segments The data base consists of a large parallel literary corpus Le petit prince and translations thereof which is complemented by further sources of information such as descriptive grammars The data are analyzed from a synchronic perspective However diachronic issues are addressed unsystematically too It is shown that the distribution of phenomena which characterize paradigms of spatial interrogatives are subject to areal linguistic factors This is the first typological study of spatial interrogatives It provides new insights for students of the grammar of space morphological paradigms and language typology
