leaders on a regular basis. It cites numerous actual events which are described and explained regarding best practices. The chapters emphasize the importance of experience and preparation and provide examples, experiences, scenarios, takeaways, tools, and more with respect to the superintendent and the aspiring superintendent. Additionally, tips on establishing and maintaining a positive relationship with the school board are given, a relationship which is paramount for the superintendent and the school district to be successful. Perhaps one of the more important observations conveyed in the text is the need for the school board, the staff, and everyone interested in the schooling process to work together. Without collaboration among all parties concerned, stagnation will fester and nothing worthwhile will be accomplished. Other topics presented include conflict resolution, ethics, high performing teams, lessons learned, and ways to cultivate positive community relations. Claudia Lenz, Bernt Gebauer, Patricia Hladschik, Călin Rus, Angelos Valianatos, 2022-02-01

A journey towards a democratic teacher ethos and a democratic culture in schools. Being a democratic teacher requires more than just being good at one's subject. Among other things, it requires the ability to listen to learners, colleagues, and parents, and openness to the cultural affiliations and practices they bring to the educational process, empathy, and a sense of responsibility for the well-being and empowerment of all learners. The teacher self-reflection tool aims to support teachers and other educators to develop their own competences relating to democratic culture and a democratic professional ethos, which builds on the values of democracy, human rights, and intercultural dialogue. It offers guidance throughout this development process and on working with the Council of Europe's Reference Framework of Competences for Democratic Culture (RFCDC). The tool can be used as a means of getting acquainted with the RFCDC, but it can also be used as a companion to self-reflection on teaching and democratic competences.

Portin, Lynn G. Beck, Michael Knapp, Joseph Murphy, 2003-02-28 The primary purpose of this study is to learn from the experiences of schools across the U S that are engaged in a largely process oriented reform strategy Schools vary in their capacity for productive self reflection The authors examine the process of self assessment that many schools engaged in during this time of widespread public attention to the equality of schools The schools examined in these cases reveal a complex interaction between the nature of the self reflective activity the schools were engaged in in this case a National Education Association school review process entitled KEYS to Success in Schools the contexts that shape the school and the readiness on the part of school staff to engage in systematic reflection around issues that affect teaching and learning The act of self reflection in schools may not provide by itself a source of new ideas alternative models and a sense of what might be possible for the school to accomplish Some external agent can often provide the impetus for or constrain the actions of school staffs in examining their programs and capacity for renewal The acts and outcomes of self reflection are inevitably guided and or constrained by various contexts including the school s history culture structure and supports and pressures provided from communities districts and states Research Handbook of Critical Management Education Clare Rigg, Kiran
