growth      Reflections on Old Age Cornelius F. Murphy, 2015-04-07 The English writer E M Forster described old age as a seductive combination of increased wisdom and decaying powers to which too little intelligence is devoted This book is a response to that criticism It explains how old age has been considered throughout the ages by philosophers poets and other literary figures and explores how the extraordinary increase of life expectancy that began in the last century has been sustained by science and medicine Unfortunately the general public still prefers to keep the elderly out of sight and especially out of mind To overcome this marginalization I call for the emergence of a more inclusive humanism one that is welcoming to persons of all ages To overcome the pervasive isolation of the elderly requires a new dialogue across all the living generations Echoing the sentiments of Cicero in his classic study of old age I also call for a reflective maturity to develop among the elderly one that reaches deeply into themselves and increases their understanding of the world around them Spiritual maturity demands growth in virtue and charity in the advance of years A reaching out to all in the pursuit of justice and the common good is strongly recommended The book concludes with some reflections upon hopes for personal immortality as well as the qualities of divine justice and mercy      The Life of Love: An Invitation: Fifty-two Reflections on Emotional and Spiritual Healing Sharon Southwell, 2014-10-26 Is love the place where psychological observation and spiritual wisdom about healing meet If love is associated with healing of all sorts how do I more consciously set about to grow in love seeking healing for myself and for my neighbours community and world How do I encourage others in their journeys into love Drawing on a broad Christian heritage a deep respect for the insights of other religious and spiritual traditions and two decades of work in welfare and clinical settings psychologist Sharon Southwell encourages spiritual seekers of all backgrounds to consider these questions for themselves Structured in 52 Reflections each followed by Invitations The Life of Love invites you to grow in love by embracing life giving connection to yourself to others your community to art nature and to your ultimate context whether you experience this as God or as some other immanent or transcendent spiritual connection
