groups is however difficult and for urban school districts whose resource bases are diminishing grappling with these issues presents a vital social problem David Stewart analyzes these issues in detail illustrating that the root of these difficulties lies in the absence of coordination between the federal government's immigration policy and related education policies at the federal state and local levels Stewart calls the Congressional immigration committees to task for giving insufficient attention to the educational needs of immigrants and urges larger and more timely federal funding for local immigrant education programs Migration World Magazine ,1993 Indexes for Abstracts of Reports and Testimony ,1994
