Wesleyan-Methodist Magazine, 1885 The Path of Perfection in Religious Life ... Translated from the French Leguay (l'Abbe, Vicar-General of Perpignan.), 1862 Black Aesthetics and the Interior Life Christopher Freeburg, 2017-09-12 Christopher Freeburg's Black Aesthetics and the Interior Life offers a crucial new reading of a neglected aspect of African American literature and art across the long twentieth century Rejecting the idea that the most dehumanizing of black experiences such as lynching or other racial violence have completely robbed victims of their personhood Freeburg rethinks what it means to be a person in the works of black artists This book advances the idea that individual persons always retain the ability to withhold express or change their ideas and this concept has profound implications for long held assumptions about the relationship between black interior life and black collective political interests Examining an array of seminal black texts from Ida B Wells's antilynching pamphlets to works by Richard Wright Nina Simone and Toni Morrison Freeburg demonstrates that the personhood represented by these writers unsettles rather than automatically strengthens black subjects relationships to political movements such as racial uplift civil rights and black nationalism He shows how black artists illuminate the challenges of racial collectivity while stressing the vital stakes of individual personhood In his challenge to current African Americanist criticism Freeburg makes a striking contribution to our understanding of African American literature and culture The Life of Prayer A. The Golden Age of Spanish mysticism has traditionally been read in terms of individual authors or theological traditions God Made Word however considers early modern Spanish mysticism as a question of language and as a discourse that circulated in concrete social institutional and geographic spaces Proposing a new reading of early modern Spanish mysticism God Made Word traces the struggles over the representation of interiorized spiritual union the tension between making it known and conveying its unknowability far beyond the usual canon of mystic literature Dale Shuger combines a study of genres that have traditionally been the object of literary study including poetry theatre and autobiography with a language based analysis of other areas that have largely been studied by historians and theologians Arguing that these generic separations grew out of an increasing preoccupation with the cultivation and control of interiorized spirituality God Made Word shows that by tracing certain mystic representations we come to understand the emergence of different discursive rules and expectations for a wide range of representations of the ineffable A Difficult Grace Michael Ryan,2000 In preliterate societies even those as late as ancient Greece and Anglo Saxon England the poet is the ideologue historian theologian philosopher TV newspaper Internet and megamultiplex cinema rolled into one so begins Michael Ryan's lively description of the cultural context of ancient poetry in pointed contrast to that of poetry now Informed by his own experience as a poet and writer A Difficult Grace examines the lives and works of Dickinson Yeats Pound Eliot Williams Whitman Frost Bishop and Stevens as well as other poets and writers before and since deftly combining literary history critical writing by the writers themselves and Ryan's expert understanding of their work The result is a collection of powerfully argued essays written in a style easily accessible to a wide range of readers Attending to the difficult graces of form structure rhythm and technique Ryan illuminates the unifying subject of his book the vocation of the poet and the writer in the contemporary world This is an essential book for both writers and readers
