Beautiful Enemies Andrew Epstein,2006-09-21 Although it has long been commonplace to imagine the archetypal American poet singing a solitary Song of Myself much of the most enduring American poetry has actually been preoccupied with the drama of friendship In this lucid and absorbing study Andrew Epstein argues that an obsession with both the pleasures and problems of friendship erupts in the New American Poetry that emerges after the Second World War By focusing on some of the most significant postmodernist American poets the New York School poets John Ashbery Frank O Hara and their close contemporary Amiri Baraka Beautiful Enemies reveals a fundamental paradox at the heart of postwar American poetry and culture the avant garde s commitment to individualism and nonconformity runs directly counter to its own valorization of community and collaboration In fact Epstein demonstrates that the clash between friendship and nonconformity complicates the legendary alliances forged by postwar poets becomes a predominant theme in the poetry they created and leaves contemporary writers with a complicated legacy to negotiate Rather than simply celebrating friendship and poetic community as nurturing and inspiring these poets represent friendship as a kind of exhilarating maddening contradiction a site of attraction and repulsion affinity and rivalry Challenging both the reductive critiques of American individualism and the idealized heavily biographical celebrations of literary camaraderie one finds in much critical discussion this book provides a new interpretation of the peculiar dynamics of American avant garde poetic communities and the role of the individual within them By situating his extensive and revealing readings of these highly influential poets against the backdrop of Cold War cultural politics and within the context of American pragmatist thought Epstein uncovers the collision between radical self reliance and the siren call of the interpersonal at the core of postwar American poetry

James Wright Jonathan Blunk, 2017-10-17 The authorized and sweeping biography of one of America's most complex influential and enduring poets In the extraordinary generation of American poets who came of age in the middle of the twentieth century James Wright 1927-1980 was frequently placed at the top of the list With a fierce single minded devotion to his work Wright escaped the steel town of his Depression era childhood in the Ohio valley to become a revered professor of English literature and a Pulitzer Prize winner But his hometown remained at the heart of his work and he courted a rough enduring muse from his vivid memories of the Midwest A full throated lyricism and classical poise became his tools honesty and unwavering compassion his trademark Using meticulous research hundreds of interviews and Wright's public readings Jonathan Blunk's authorized biography explores the poet's life and work with exceptional candor making full use of Wright's extensive unpublished work letters poems translations and personal journals Focusing on the tensions that forced Wright's poetic breakthroughs and the relationships that plunged him to emotional depths Blunk provides a spirited portrait and a fascinating depiction of this turbulent period in American letters A gifted translator and mesmerizing reader Wright appears throughout in all his complex and eloquent urgency Discerning yet expansive James Wright will change the way the poet's work is understood and inspire a new appreciation for his enduring achievement

No Man's Land Sandra M. Gilbert, Susan Gubar, 1996-02-21 How do writers and their readers imagine the future in a turbulent time of sex war and sex change And how have transformations of gender and genre affected literary representations of woman man family and society This final volume in Gilbert and Gubar's landmark three part No Man's Land: The Place of the Woman Writer in the Twentieth Century argues that throughout the twentieth century women of letters have found themselves on a confusing cultural front and that most increasingly aware of the artifice of gender have dispatched missives recording some form of the future shock associated with profound changes in the roles and rules governing sexuality Divided into two parts Letters from the Front is chronological in organization with the first section focusing on such writers of the modernist period as Virginia Woolf Zora Neale Hurston Edna St Vincent Millay Marianne Moore and H D and the second devoted to authors who came to prominence after the Second World War including Gwendolyn Brooks Sylvia Plath Margaret Atwood Toni Morrison and A S Byatt Embroiled in the sex antagonism that Gilbert and Gubar traced in The War of the Words and in the sexual experimentations that they studied in Sexchanges all these artists struggled to envision the inscription of hitherto untold stories on what H D called the blank pages of the unwritten volume of the new Through the works of the first group Gilbert and Gubar focus in particular on the demise of any single normative definition of the feminine and the rise of masquerades of femininity amounting to female female impersonation In the writings of the second group the critics pay special attention to proliferating revisions of the family romance revisions significantly inflected by differences in race class and ethnicity and to the rise of masquerades of masculinity or male male impersonation Throughout Gilbert and Gubar discuss the impact on literature of such crucial historical events as the Harlem Renaissance the Second World War and the sexual revolution of the sixties What kind of future might such a past engender Their book concludes with a fantasia on The Further Adventures of Snow White in which their bravura retellings of the Grimm fairy tale illustrate ways in which future writing about gender might develop Frank O'Hara and the Poetics of Saying 'I' Micah Mattix, 2011-03-03 While recent works of criticism on Frank O Hara have focused on the technical similarities between his poetry and painting or between his use of language and poststructuralism Frank O Hara and the Poetics of Saying I argues that what is most significant in O Hara s work is not such much his borrowing from painters or his proto Derridean use of language but his preoccupation with self exploration and the temporal effects of his work as artifacts Following Pasternak s understanding of artistic inspiration as an act of love for the material world O Hara explores moments of experience in an effort to both complicate and enrich our experience of the material world On the one hand in poems such as Second Avenue for example O Hara works to muddy language through which experience is in part mediated with the use of parataxis allusions and absurd metaphors and similes On the other in his I do this I do that poems he names the events of his lunch hour in an effort among other things to experience time as a moment of fullness rather than as a moment of loss The book argues furthermore that O Hara s view of the self as both an expression of the creative force at work in the world and as the temporal aggregate of finite experiences places him between so called Romantic and postmodern theories of the lyric While it is often argued that O Hara is a forerunner of a new critically informed materialist poetics this study concludes that O Hara s work is somewhat less radical in its understanding of poetic meaning than is often claimed Moreover while O Hara is preoccupied with his experience in his poems the book argues that he espouses in some respects a rather traditional view of love In addition to being a metaphor for the creative act love for O Hara is the chance coming together of two entities Yet one of the ironies of this is that while love is for O Hara a feeling that is the result of movement or the unexpected coming together of two otherwise separ

Morrison and Shobha De Dr. B. PREETHA M.A., M.Phil., Ph.D., Historical Dictionary of the Beat Movement Paul Varner, 2012-06-21 The Beat Movement was one of the most radical and innovative literary and arts movements of the 20th century and the history of the Beat Movement is still being written in the early years of the 21st century Unlike other kinds of literary and artistic movements the Beat Movement is self-perpetuating After the 1950s generation headlined by Jack Kerouac Allen Ginsberg and William S Burroughs a new generation arose in the 1960s led by writers such as Diane Wakoski Anne Waldman and poets from the East Side Scene In the 1970s and 1980s writers from the Poetry Project at St Mark's Church and contributors to World magazine continued the movement The 1980s and 1990s Language Movement saw itself as an outgrowth and progression of previous Beat aesthetics Today poets and writers in San Francisco still gather at City Lights Bookstore and in Boulder at the Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics and continue the movement It is now a postmodern movement and probably would be unrecognizable to the earliest Beats It may even be in the process of finally shedding the name Beat But the Movement continues The Historical Dictionary of the Beat Movement covers the movement's history through a chronology an introductory essay and an extensive bibliography The dictionary section has over 700 cross-referenced entries on significant people themes critical issues and the most significant novels poems and volumes of poetry and prose that have formed the Beat canon This book is an excellent access point for students researchers and anyone wanting to know more about the Beat Movement Paperbound Books in Print, 1992

May Sarton Margot Peters, 2011-05-04 The first biography of May Sarton a brilliant revelation of the life and work of a literary figure who influenced her thousands of readers not only by her novels and poetry but by her life and her writings about it May Sarton's career stretched from 1930 early sonnets published in Poetry magazine to 1995 her journal At Eighty Two She wrote more than twenty novels and twenty-five books of poems and journals The acclaimed biographer Margot Peters was given full access to Sarton's letters journals and notes and during five years of research came to know Sarton herself the complex woman and artist She gives us a compelling portrait of Sarton the actress the poet the novelist the feminist the writer who struggled for literary acceptance She shows us beneath Sarton's exhilarating irresistible spirit the needy courtier and seducer the woman whose creativity was propelled by the psychic drama she created in others We watch young May at age two as she is abruptly uprooted from her native Belgium by World War I a child ignored both by her mother who was intent on her own artistic vision and reluctant to cope with a child and by her father obsessed with his academic research We see Sarton as a young girl in America and then later at nineteen choosing a life in the theatre landing a job in Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory and gathering what would become a tight knit coterie of friends and lovers Sarton beginning to write poetry and novels Sarton making friends with Elizabeth Bowen and Julian Huxley Erika and Klaus Mann Virginia Woolf the poet H D charming and enlisting them with her work her vitality her hunger for love driven by her need to conquer among her conquests Bowen Huxley and later his wife Juliette We see her intense friendships with literary pals including Muriel Rukeyser her lover and Louise Bogan Sarton's literary sibling who at once encouraged her and excluded her from a world in which Bogan was a central figure We see Sarton begin to create in the spiritual journals that inspired the devotion of readers the image of a strong independent woman who lived peacefully with solitude an image that contradicted the reality of her neediness loneliness and isolation as she pushed away loved ones with her demands and betrayals A fascinating portrait of one of our major literary figures a book that for the first time reveals the life that she herself kept hidden
