Rethinking South Africa's Past Christopher J. Lee, Andrew Offenburger, 2025-03-18 This book presents key historical scholarship published in Safundi from 1999 to 2024 tracing South Africa's past through approaches of comparative history transnational history and visual history in addition to addressing the importance of topics like gender labor and class dynamics as well as regional historiographies The first section of the book focuses on comparative history as a founding method for Safundi given the journal's origins in American and South African studies while also recalibrating this approach through a variety of topics cities biographies and practices of violence rather than nation states writ large Drawing upon innovative sources of evidence the second section moves beyond the comparative method to address transnational histories as a new narrative technique for storytelling and analysis Whether issues of education immigration or visiting musicians to South Africa these chapters demonstrate the importance of a post national approach for understanding the past The sections that follow fan out into other subject areas including the uses of visual history gender roles class cultures and environmental history all of which illuminate connections between South African history and other parts of the world This book will be an indispensable resource for scholars students activists and policymakers as well as those readers who are generally interested in understanding South Africa's complex history over the past several centuries

Nuclear Proliferation and the Psychology of Political Leadership Kelly O'Reilly, 2014-09-15 This book offers a novel approach to understanding the puzzle of nuclear proliferation by examining how leaders' beliefs and perceptions about the international system influence states' decisions to acquire nuclear weapons Today there is a persisting dilemma over the spread of nuclear weapons for both practitioners and scholars of international affairs Uncertainty remains whether determined proliferators can be stopped as shown by the cases of North Korea and Iran These instances of proliferation raise questions about regional stability the use of pre-emptive military action and the potential for reactive proliferation by neighbouring countries Despite the serious implications surrounding the spread of these weapons proliferation scholarship has thus far failed to solve what has been described as the proliferation puzzle why do some countries choose nuclear weapons while others do not The author argues that understanding basic psychological motivations such as the role of power and perceptions of self and others forms a strategic context which provides answers about a leader's willingness to proliferate Proliferation willingness is a critical yet frequently overlooked part of the proliferation equation Ultimately it is the combination of willingness and proliferation opportunity i.e. technical and scientific capabilities that determines whether a country goes nuclear By examining several historical instances of proliferation decision making in South Africa India Libya and Australia the book's findings highlight the fundamental role of leaders' beliefs in shaping proliferation outcomes This book will be of much interest to students of nuclear proliferation political psychology security studies and IR in general

Ethiopian Elites' Political Cultures: a critical juncture Solomon Hailemariam PhD, 2025-05-09 Recurrent ethnic conflicts have been seen in Ethiopia especially during the last three decades since the introduction of a governance structure of ethnic federalism in 1991 Attempts to bring political stability to the country have not been successful as competing political cultures constantly struggle for hegemony Political constituencies have fragmented based on sub national political cultures This book shows the influence of Amhara Oromo and Tigrayan political cultures in Ethiopia and their contribution to the recurrent ethnic conflict in the country The book used the concepts of political culture and neo patrimonialism as analytical tools to understand the differences among and between the educated people from these ethnic groups The findings show that members of each ethnic group are deeply entrenched in their own culture with clear distrust of the political motives of other ethnicities Beyond the disagreements on political history the educated elites accuse each other when it comes to the many challenges faced by the country They accuse each other of state capture corruption inciting ethnic conflicts malpractice poor governance misguided policies divide and rule practices and misappropriation of the nation's economic wealth The elites themselves do not shoulder responsibility for any failure in the country and do not show any interest in understanding other points of view do not show sincere respect for the other's value but claim privileged political positions in present day Ethiopia for past accomplishments
