Marketizing Education And Health In Developing Countries:

Marketizing Education and Health in Developing Countries Christopher Colclough, 1997 This book draws on evidence from a large number of developing countries to assess the impact of market reforms on the provision of education and health services The contributors show that approaches that seek merely to pass more of their costs to consumers perform less well than is often claimed and that improved cost effectiveness of health and education systems requires far more than changes in the sources and mechanisms of obtaining finance

Improving Health Service Delivery in Developing Countries David H. Peters, 2009 Reliable information on how health service strategies affect the poor is in short supply In an attempt to redress the imbalance Improving Health Service Delivery in Developing Countries presents evidence on strategies for strengthening health service delivery based on systematic reviews of the literature quantitative and qualitative analyses of existing data and seven country case studies The authors also explore how changes in coverage of different health services affect each other on the national level Finally the authors explain why setting international targets for health services has been not been successful and offer an alternative approach based on a specific country s experience The book s findings are clear and hopeful There are many ways to improve health services Measuring change and using information to guide decisions and inform stakeholders are critically important for successful implementation Asking difficult questions using information intelligently and involving key stakeholders and institutions are central to the learning and doing practices that underlie successful health service delivery

Handbook of International Development and Education Pauline Dixon, Steve Humble, Chris Counihan, 2015-06-29 This Handbook considers the myths and untruths that currently exist in international development and education Using historic and contemporary evidence this compendium redefines the international development narrative through a new understanding of

Handbook on Development Policy and Management Colin H. Kirkpatrick, Ron Clarke, Charles Polidano, 2002-01-01 this is a book one would expect to find in all libraries and on all development studies reading lists John Hailey Journal of International Development the Handbook is a unique reference tool on international development policy and management Its format both comprehensive in coverage and concise in content will make it essential reading for the growing number of postgraduates studying development policy and management as well as for public administration foreign consultants and aid workers in low and middle income countries Andrew Nickson Public Administration This Handbook will surely prove to be an essential to the students practitioners and others concerned with improvement of human condition in developing countries Pundarik Mukhopadhaya The Singapore Economic Review this Handbook offers a significant remedy to the scarcity of material in this important area It is certainly very near the top of this reviewer s list of recommended reading for students researchers and practitioners concerned with development policy Michael Tribe Development Policy Review the Handbook offers an excellent one volume survey of modern development policy and practice in poor countries Tony Jackson The Journal of the Institution of Economic Development This comprehensive collection contains an excellent introduction to all the major issues of development policy Frances Stewart Queen Elizabeth House University of Oxford UK This important Handbook on international development policy and management covers a broad spectrum of contemporary topics across all the major areas of interest With over 40 chapters the book comprehensively explores the many themes and issues of significance for both policy and implementation and provides easily accessible reference material on current practice and research The 42 contributors come from a diverse range of backgrounds and enjoy international reputations in their chosen fields The Handbook is organised in two parts one dealing with policy issues and the other with implementation and management issues The first part on policy covers a wide range of economic social and environmental topics The second part explores the political context of implementation and development practice and goes on to cover a range of issues relating to management in the public and non state sectors and the management of development projects Each individual chapter provides background information on theory and practice describes the current state of play examines prospects for the future and includes an annotated guide to further reading This extensive handbook will become an essential reference on international development policy and management Although primarily designed for postgraduate students and scholars of development studies it will also be welcomed by development practitioners NGOs and aid agencies

International Handbook on Globalisation, Education and Policy Research

Joseph Zajda, 2005-12-05 The aim of this Handbook is to present a global overview of developments in education and policy change during the last decade It has the objective of providing both a strategic education policy statement on recent shifts in education and policy research globally and offers new approaches to further exploration development and improvement of education and policy making The Handbook attempts to address some of the above issues and problems confronting educators and policy makers globally Different articles seek to conceptualize the on going problems of education policy formulation and implementation and provide a useful synthesis of the education policy research conducted in different countries and practical implications The Handbook by focusing on such issues as the OECD 2001 model of the knowledge society and associated strategic challenge and deliverable goals OECD 2001 139 UNESCO driven lifelong learning paradigm and its relevance to education policy makers globally different models of policy planning and equity questions that are raised by centralization decentralization diversity uniformity and curriculum standardization issues the crises of educational quality the debate of standards and excellence and good and effective teaching will contribute to a better and more holistic understanding of the education policy and research nexus offering possible strategies for the effective and pragmatic policy planning and implementation at the local regional and national levels

Public Services Delivery

World Bank, 2005 This publication sets out a framework for analysing the performance of governments in developing countries looking at the government as a whole and at local and municipal levels and focusing on individual sectors that form the core of essential government services such as health education welfare waste disposal and infrastructure It draws lessons from performance

measurement systems in a range of industrial countries to identify good practice around the world in improving public sector governance combating corruption and making services work for poor people      Targeting Development Richard Black,Howard White,2003-11-20 The Millennium Development Goals accepted by the UN in 2000 are along with the targets set by the OECD in 1996 the subject of this expertly written book Is development achievable in the time frames given How useful were the goals in the first place How far have we come in solving the aching problems of the developing world These questions and      Comparing Post-Socialist Transformations Maia Chankseliani,Iveta Silova,2018-11-05 This volume revisits the book edited by David Phillips and Michael Kaser in 1992 entitled Education and Economic Change in Eastern Europe and the Former Soviet Union <https://doi.org/10.15730/books.42> Two and a half decades later this volume reflects on how post socialist countries have engaged with what Phillips Kaser called the flush of educational freedom Spanning diverse geopolitical settings that range from Southeast and Central Europe to the Caucasus and Central Asia the chapters in this volume offer analyses of education policies and practices that the countries in this region have pursued since the fall of the Berlin Wall and the dissolution of the Soviet Union This book explores three interrelated questions First it seeks to capture complex reconfigurations of education purposes during post socialist transformations noting the emergence of neoliberal education imaginaries in post socialist spaces and their effects on policy discussions about education quality and equity across the region Second it examines the ongoing tensions inherent in post socialist transformations suggesting that beneath the surface of dominant neoliberal narratives there are always powerful countercurrents ranging from the persisting socialist legacies to other alternative conceptualizations of education futures highlighting the diverse trajectories of post socialist education transformations And finally the book engages with the question of comparison prompting both the contributing authors and readers to reflect on how research on post socialist education transformations can contribute to rethinking comparative methods in education across space and time      Eliminating Human Poverty Santosh Mehrotra,Enrique Delamonica,2013-07-04 This book focuses on the provision of basic social services in particular access to education health and water supplies as the central building blocks of any human development strategy The authors concentrate on how these basic social services can be financed and delivered more effectively to achieve the internationally agreed Millennium Development Goals Their analysis which departs from the dominant macro economic paradigm deploys the results of broad ranging research they led at UNICEF and UNDP investigating the record on basic social services of some 30 developing countries In seeking to learn from these new data they develop an analytical argument around two potential synergies at the macro level between poverty reduction human development and economic growth and at the micro level between interventions to provide basic social services Policymakers they argue can integrate macro economic and social policy Fiscal monetary and other macro economic policies can be compatible with social sector requirements They make the case that policymakers have more flexibility than is usually presented by orthodox writers and international financial institutions and that if policymakers engaged in alternative macro economic and growth oriented policies this could lead to the expansion of human capabilities and the fulfillment of human rights This book explores some of these policy options The book also argues that more than just additional aid is needed Specific strategic shifts in the areas of aid policy decentralized governance health and education policy and the private public mix in service provision are a prerequisite to achieve the goals of human development The combination of governance reforms and fiscal and macro economic policies outlined in this book can eliminate human poverty in the span of a generation

Higher Education, Public Good and Markets Jandhyala B. G. Tilak, 2017-10-16 This book critically examines some of the major trends in the development of higher education It demonstrates how in the context of liberalisation globalisation and marketisation the crisis in higher education has assumed different dimensions in all advanced and emerging societies The author shows how the state tends to slowly withdraw from the responsibility of higher education including in the arena of policy making or simply adopts a policy of laissez faire of non involvement which helps in the rapid unbridled growth of private sector in higher education The notion of higher education as a public good is under serious contestation in current times The book argues for the need to resurrect the compelling nature of higher education along with its several implications for public policy and planning while providing a broad portrayal of global developments comparative perspectives and key lessons The volume will be of interest to scholars and researchers of education political science public policy and administration governance development studies economics and those working in the higher education sectors think tanks policymakers as well as NGOs

Gender Justice, Development, and Rights Maxine Molyneux, Shahra Razavi, 2002-11-07 Recent years have seen a shift in the international development agenda in the direction of a greater emphasis on rights and democracy While this has brought many positive changes in women's rights and political representation in much of the world these advances were not matched by increases in social justice Rising income inequalities coupled with widespread poverty in many countries have been accompanied by record levels of crime and violence Meanwhile the global shift in the consensus over the role of the state in welfare provision has in many contexts entailed the down sizing of public services and the re allocation of service delivery to commercial interests charitable groups NGOs and households Gender Justice Development and Rights reflects on this ambivalent record and on the significance accorded in international development policy to rights and democracy in the post Cold War era Key items on the contemporary policy agenda neo liberal economic and social policies democracy and multiculturalism are addressed here by leading scholars and regional specialists through theoretical reflections and detailed case studies Together they constitute a collection which casts contemporary liberalism in a distinctive light by applying a gender perspective to the analysis of political and policy processes Case studies from Latin America sub Saharan Africa Middle East East Central Europe South and South east Asia contribute a cross cultural dimension to the analysis of contemporary liberalism the dominant value system in the modern world and how it exists and is resisted in developing and post transition societies The Vietnamese

Health Care System in Change Kerstin Priwitzer, 2012 Within the last twenty years a large scale bottom up privatization has taken place in Vietnam changing and dismantling the public health care system This process has led to severe tensions inherent in the transitional society of Vietnam between equity and access to health care support especially for the poor elderly migrants and ethnic minorities on the one hand and its efficiency on the other hand The book traces the reform efforts to modernize the health care system by the Communist Party of Vietnam and the Vietnamese government The author bases her findings on little known primary literature and interviews with key stakeholders of the policy network involved in the reform of the health care system thereby painting an authentic atmospheric picture of the profound changes in the health care system in Vietnam

Southeast Asian Paper Tigers? K. S. Jomo, 2003-03-20 This important collection is a timely contribution to the debate on the Asian financial crisis With chapters written by well established international experts in Asian economics this book constitutes a finely judged example of the varying opinions on the matter

Trade and Health ,

What Happened to the Soviet University? Maia Chankseliani, 2022-06-23 What Happened to the Soviet University explores how one of the largest geopolitical changes of the twentieth century the dissolution of the Soviet Union triggered and inspired the reconfiguration of the Soviet university The reader is invited to engage in a historical and sociological analysis of radical and incremental changes affecting sixty nine former Soviet universities since the early 1990s The study departs from traditional deficit oriented internalist explanations of change and illustrates how global flows of ideas people and finances have impacted higher education transformations in this region It also identifies areas of persistence The processes of marketisation internationalisation and academic liberation are analysed to show that universities have maintained certain traditions while adopting and internalising new ways of fulfilling their education and research functions Soviet universities have survived chaotic processes of post Soviet transformation and have self stabilised with time Most of them remain flagship institutions with large numbers of students and relatively high research productivity At the same time the majority of these universities operate in a top down one man management environment with limited institutional autonomy and academic freedom As the homes of intellectuals universities represent a duality of opportunity and threat Universities can nurture collective possibilities imagining and bringing about different futures At the same time or perhaps because of this the probability is high that universities will continue to be perceived as threats to governments with authoritarian inclinations One message to take away from this monograph is that the time is ripe for former Soviet universities to loosen their last remaining chains

Fixing Governance from Below Masooda Bano, Professor of Development Studies Masooda Bano, 2025-11-03 In this book Masooda Bano critically examines the repeated failures of decentralizing education systems and promoting community participation as solutions to learning crises Drawing on compelling research from Pakistan India Nigeria and Indonesia the book reveals how international aid programs designed based on what works in Western contexts routinely misjudge local realities At the same time national governments implement costly donor approved reforms to gain international credibility while real on the ground issues remain unaddressed With sharp insights and thought provoking analysis this book calls for a fundamental shift in how we approach educational reform one that respects local contexts prioritizes genuine accountability and moves beyond one size fits all solutions

Development and Structural Change in Asia-Pacific Martin Andersson, Christer Gunnarsson, 2003-09-02 The authors consider how the Asia Pacific economies have developed since the financial crises and highlight two inter related themes the effect of global forces on the national Asian economies and the different development paths of these economies as they jointly enter this new phase Questions raised by the book include is globalization a threat to development and prosperity in the Asia Pacific or did globalization rather facilitate and accelerate the pace of industrialization among late industrializers in the region is there a single Asia Pacific development model or did the crisis show this to be false did the financial crisis reveal structural weaknesses in an Asia Pacific state led model or was state leadership already in demise Development and Structural Change in Asia Pacific provides a useful and relevant account of how the global economy has led to structural changes within Asian economies
