Research and Practice in Social Skills Training A.S. Bellack, M. Hersen, 2013-11-11

It is perhaps trite to refer to human beings as social animals but never theless it is true A substantial portion of our lives is spent in interactions with other people

Moreover the nature quality and quantity of those interactions have a tremendous impact on behavior mood and the adequacy of adjustment

Faulty interpersonal relationship patterns have reliably been associated with a wide variety of behavioral psychological dysfunctions ranging from simple loneliness to schizophrenia

Most traditional analyses of interpersonal failures have viewed them as consequences or by products of other difficulties such as anxiety depression intrapsychic conflict or thought disorder

Consequently remedial efforts have rarely been directed to interpersonal behavior per se

Rather it has been expected that interpersonal relationships would improve when the source disorder was eliminated

While this model does account for some interpersonal dysfunctions e.g. social anxiety can inhibit interpersonal behavior it is not adequate to account for the vast majority of interpersonal difficulties

In fact in many cases those difficulties either are independent of or underlie other dysfunctions e g repeated social failure may produce depression or social anxiety

Edelstein, Larry Michelson, 2012-12-06 Americans are healing themselves Heckler 1985 and prevention has taken root McGinnis 1985a We are altering our lifestyle to reduce physical and mental health risks Perhaps as important is the fact that the science of prevention is beginning to catch up with the practices of prevention although some might argue that the popularity of these practices far outstrips sound theoretical and empirical foundations The chapter authors in this volume examine the theoretical and empirical foundations of many current prevention practices and where data exist discuss the status of prevention efforts Where substantial prevention is not yet on the horizon the authors attempt to point us in the right direction or at least share with the reader some of the risk factors that should be addressed in our research We hope that readers will be stimulated to discuss the issues raised advance the current research and where possible adopt the prevention and health promotion strategies that are supported by sound theoretical and empirical work This volume can in no way be comprehensive with respect to the current work in prevention however we hope that we have provided a sampling of prevention activities and issues that appear together in one volume for perhaps the first time The primary intent of this volume is modest and the reader should not attempt to find continuity among the various chapters The only binding among these contributions is their focus on prevention Treating Stress In Families..... Charles Figley, 2013-05-24 Provides an overview of the causes and treatment approaches for counseling families under stress and focuses on several examples of extreme tension

Sourcebook of Family Theories and Methods Pauline Boss, William J. Doherty, Ralph LaRossa, Walter R. Schumm, Suzanne K. Steinmetz, 2008-11-19 Origins We call this book on theoretical orientations and methodological strategies in family studies a sourcebook because it details the social and personal roots i e sources from which these orientations and strategies flow Thus an appropriate way to preface this book is to talk first of its roots its beginnings In the mid 1980s there emerged in some quarters the sense that it was time for family studies to take stock of itself A goal was thus set to write a book that like Janus would face both backward and forward a book that would give readers both a perspective on the past and a map for the future There were precedents for such a project The Handbook of Marriage and the Family edited by Harold Christensen and published in 1964 the two Contemporary Theories about the Family volumes edited by Wesley Burr Reuben Hill F Ivan Nye and Ira Reiss published in 1979 and the Handbook of Marriage and the Family edited by Marvin Sussman and Suzanne Steinmetz then in production
