Islamic Divorce in North America Julie Macfarlane, 2012-04-30 Policy makers and the public are increasingly attentive to the role of sharia in the everyday lives of Western Muslims with negative associations and public fears growing among their non Muslim neighbors in the United States and Canada The most common way North American Muslims relate to sharia is in their observance of Muslim marriage and divorce rituals recourse to traditional Islamic marriage and to a lesser extent divorce is widespread Julie Macfarlane has conducted hundreds of interviews with Muslim couples as well as with religious and community leaders and family conflict professionals Her book describes how Muslim marriage and divorce processes are used in North America and what they mean to those who embrace them as a part of their religious and cultural identity The picture that emerges is of an idiosyncratic private ordering system that reflects a wide range of attitudes towards contemporary family values and changes in gender roles Some women describe pervasive assumptions about restrictions on their role in the family system as well as pressure to accept these values and to stay married Others of both genders describe the gradual modernization of Islamic family traditions and the subsequent emergence of a Western shari'a but a continuing commitment to the rituals of Muslim marriage and divorce in their private lives Readers will be challenged to consider how the secular state should respond in order to find a balance between state commitment to universal norms and formal equality and the protection of religious freedom expressed in private religious and cultural practices The Islamic Traditions of Cirebon A.G.

Baderin, 2017-03-02 Islamic law influences the lives of Muslims today as aspects of the law are applied as part of State law in different forms in many areas of the world This volume provides a much needed collection of articles that explore the complexities involved in the application of Islamic law within the contemporary legal systems of different countries today with particular reference to Saudi Arabia Morocco Indonesia Nigeria Turkey Malaysia and Pakistan The articles identify the relevant areas of difficulties and also propose possible ways of realising a more effective and equitable application of Islamic law in the contemporary world The volume features an introductory overview of the subject as well as a comprehensive bibliography to aid further research Muslim Women and Islamic Family Law Islam Uddin, 2025-03-18 This book investigates the practice of Islamic family law among Muslim women in a minority context Muslims living as a minority often practise Islamic family law in a private capacity following customary laws from their countries of origin The invocation and operation of law in this context is however understudied and little understood In response this book provides an empirical study of the practice of Islamic family law in Britain The book analyses the lived experiences of Muslim women and their interactions with the processes of marriage and divorce. Focusing centrally on Muslim women's agency and legal consciousness, the book is based on in-depth interviews with Muslim women and with relevant professionals as well as observations of Sharia Council hearings and the analysis of related documentation. The book thus offers a rich and nuanced account of how Muslim women currently navigate marriage, marital discord, dispute resolution, divorce, and post-divorce, offering insights that will better facilitate just outcomes for them. This book will be of interest to scholars, students, and researchers in the fields of Islamic family law in minority contexts as well as legal practitioners, policymakers, and community activists working in this area. The Islamic View of Women and the Family - Shaikh Rabee' bin Haadee Al-Madkhalee, 1977-01-01. Muslim Women and Shari'ah Councils S. Bano, 2012-11-14. Using original empirical data and critiquing existing research, Samia Bano explores the experience of British Muslim women who use Shari'ah councils to resolve marital disputes. She challenges the language of community rights and claims for legal autonomy in matters of family law, showing how law and community can empower as well as restrict women. Islam, Women's Sexuality and Patriarchy in Indonesia Irma Riyani, 2020-11-26. This book explores the intimate marital relationships of Indonesian Muslim married women. As well as describing and analysing their sexual relationships, the book also investigates how Islam influences discourses of sexuality in Indonesia and in particular how Islamic teachings affect Muslim married women's perceptions and behaviour in their sexual relationships with their husbands. Based on extensive original research, the book reveals that Muslim women perceive marriage as a social, cultural, and religious obligation that they need to fulfil; that they realise that finding an ideal marriage partner is complicated, with some having the opportunity for a long courtship and others barely knowing their partner prior to marriage; and that there is a strong tendency, with some exceptions, for women to consider a sexual relationship in marriage as their duty and their husband's right. Religious and cultural discourses justify and support this view and consider refusal a sin, dosa, or taboo. Both discourses emphasise obedience towards husbands in marriage. Islam, the Ebook William E. Shepard, 2009. A college textbook for religion courses.

Chinese Islam Nasr M. Arif,Shaojin Chai,2024-06-28 This book explores the fascinating and complex histories of Islam and China Meticulously researched and captivating it provides a comprehensive history of the encounters and relationship between these two great civilizations as well as the unique development and indigenization of Islam within China. The work looks at the early interactions between Arab Muslim traders and the Tang dynasty in the seventh century, shedding light on the establishment of the first Muslim communities in China. The narrative then progresses through subsequent dynasties, examining the ebbs and flows of Muslim influence, integration, and indigenization. It looks at the emergence of the Hui and other Muslim ethnic groups who play a central role in the story of Chinese Islam. By delving into their customs, beliefs, and distinctive practices, the authors unveil the intricate process of indigenization where Islam becomes deeply rooted in Chinese culture and society. One of the unique features of this collection is the nuanced analysis of the impact of major political events as well as gradual social changes on the process of adoption and transmission of Islam in China. The authors also highlight the role of economic activities, Chinese Islamic scholars, and key architectural landmarks in this multifaceted history. Part of the Global Islamic Cultures series that looks at integrated and indigenized Islam, this book will be of interest to students and researchers of religion, Islamic studies, religious history, political Islam, cultural studies, Islamic law, and Asian studies. It will also be useful to readers who are interested in world religions, theology, and cultures.

Jan Lynn Feldman, 2011. The first book to examine religious feminist activists in Israel, the U.S., and Kuwait. Negotiating Homosexuality in Islam. Mehrdad Alipour, 2024-05-13. To enrich the existing debates on Islam and sexual diversity in the present book, I seek the potential discursive spaces on homosexuality in modern Islamic legal debates. I have undertaken this research on the thesis that modern Islamic legal tradition on homosexuality is more flexible and dynamic than one might expect. To address this essential issue, I build the study around the following constructive question: what are the discursive spaces on homosexuality in contemporary reflections within modern Shi'i legal scholarship? Responding to this central query, the study is premised on the notion that Islamic legal sources consist of a tradition of sacred textual sources, intellectual reasoning, a vast stockpile of often contrasting interpretations of these sources, and a distinguished methodological repertoire called ijtihad. Following the same methodology in this work, I describe, analyse, and critique such textual, exegetical, and intellectual/rational discursive aspects concerning homosexuality.
