Designs on the Public Kristine F. Miller, New York City is home to some of the most recognizable places in the world As familiar as the sight of New Year's Eve in Times Square or a protest in front of City Hall may be to us do we understand who controls what happens there Kristine Miller delves into six of New York's most important public spaces to trace how design influences their complicated lives Miller chronicles controversies in the histories of New York locations including Times Square Trump Tower the IBM Atrium and Sony Plaza The story of each location reveals that public space is not a concrete or fixed reality but rather a constantly changing situation open to the forces of law corporations bureaucracy and government The qualities of public spaces we consider essential including accessibility public ownership and ties to democratic life are at best temporary conditions and often completely absent Design is in Miller's view complicit in regulation of public spaces in New York City to exclude undesirables restrict activities and privilege commercial interests and in this work she shows how design can reactivate public space and public life Kristine F Miller is associate professor of landscape architecture at the University of Minnesota

American Playgrounds Susan G. Solomon, 2005 A compelling history a manifesto and a manual for change

Overlooking the Visual Kathryn Moore, 2010-11-01 Making tangible connections between theory and practice ideas and form this book encourages debate about the artistic conceptual and cultural significance of the way things look What are the metaphysical concepts at the heart of design education theory and philosophy Why do we assume that design is impossible to teach This book challenges the traditional foundations of perception and takes an imaginative radical approach setting itself apart from the traditions of analytical philosophy evolutionary psychology and phenomenology which underpin much of current design theory and discourse The new definition of perception produces startling consequences for conceptions of language intelligence meaning the senses emotions and subjectivity This is an innovative fresh view on design and how we can improve it for both practitioners and students in the architecture and design fields as well as philosophers AA Files ,1998
