1 Introduction

When all Europe was faced with a period of crisis during the emergence of Napoleon in 1813, Goethe originated from the idea of World Literature, which inspired in all the European intellectuals a sense of mission that demonstrated the spirit of forbearance and mutual understanding through spiritual exchange making it possible to overcome the chaos of a period of the East and the West.

Goethe's classical work for world-literature that would be unforgettable for good to the history of world literature was translated and then introduced to the whole nations. This resulted in opening a new horizon to the literature of every country. Goethe's spirit for World-literature became the spiritual asset shared with all the intellectual of global village. Until now I have researched Goethe Literature in asiatic aspect. The goal of this paper is to examine the Reception through translation in Korea from beginning of 20 Century until the present on a comparative literature level. I will examine into the problems in reception of Goethe Faust literature in Korea and the possibility of its productive reception in the future.

2 Korean Reception of Goethe's Faust Literature through translation

Because of the open-policy of the Gapo Reform of 1894, Korea could contact with the Western Culture. With it from the beginning of 1920 the German Literature was introduced by the people who returned from Japan to Korea after finishing having studied in Japan at that time. Goethe's Faust was partly introduced to Korean readers by the way of re-translation from Japanese to Korean. Goethe Literature that was
