Red Tide:

Red Tides Tomotoshi Okaichi, 2004-06-04 This book examines large scale outbreaks of red tide along coastal areas which is associated with fish and shellfish mass mortalities through poisoning This book discusses the red tide phenomena throughout the world including biological research results on taxonomy of cyst and vegetative cells of red tide organisms and ecological and physiological studies using ecological modeling

Red Tide W. Dale Justice, 2017-02-17 Nitrate fertilizer runoff into coastal waters have created the largest algae bloom the world has ever seen It s a third the size of Louisiana The bloom creates hundreds of square miles of dead or dying fish poisoned by toxins as it depletes dissolved oxygen in the water The algae create dense visible red colored patches near the water s surface The patches coalesce into a giant blanket covering the sea from horizon to horizon The toxins become aerosolized by the action of waves and wind creating an invisible but toxic cloud hovering above the sea surface And it s drifting on ocean currents directly towards the tourist mecca of the Mexico Texas coast

Pitcher, Mingjiang Zhou, 2018-04-26 Harmful algal blooms HABs blooms that cause fish kills contaminate seafood with toxins or cause human or ecological health impacts and harm to local economies are occurring more often in more places and lasting longer than in past decades This expansion is primarily the result of human activities through increased nutrient inputs and various aspects of climate change The Global Ecology and Oceanography of Harmful Algal Blooms GEOHAB programme promoted international collaboration to understand HAB population dynamics in various oceanographic regimes and to improve the prediction of HABs This volume introduces readers to the overarching framework of the GEOHAB programme factors contributing to the global expansion of harmful algal blooms the complexities of HABs in different habitats and the forward looking issues to be tackled by the next generation of GEOHAB GlobalHAB The programme brought together an international team of contributing scientists and ecosystem managers and its outcomes will greatly benefit the international research community

Disposable City Mario Alejandro Ariza, 2020-07-14 A deeply reported personal investigation by a Miami journalist examines the present and future effects of climate change in the Magic City a watery harbinger for coastal cities worldwide Miami Florida is likely to be entirely underwater by the end of this century Residents are already starting to see the effects of sea level rise today From sunny day flooding caused by higher tides to a sewer system on the brink of total collapse the city undeniably lives in a climate changed world In Disposable City Miami resident Mario Alejandro Ariza shows us not only what climate change looks like on the ground today but also what Miami will look like 100 years from now and how that future has been shaped by the city s racist past and present As politicians continue to kick the can down the road and Miami becomes increasingly unlivable real estate vultures and wealthy residents will be able to get out or move to higher ground but the most vulnerable communities disproportionately composed of people of color will face flood damage rising housing costs dangerously higher temperatures and stronger hurricanes that they can't afford to escape Miami may be on the front lines of climate change but the battle it's fighting today is coming for the rest of the U.S. and the rest of the world far sooner than we could have imagined even a decade ago Disposable City is a thoughtful portrait of both a vibrant city with a unique culture and the social economic and psychic costs of climate change that call us to act before it's too late
