Grindle, 2019-01-24 Throughout the Third World rural people must leave their homes in ever greater numbers to seek temporary work in urban centers in distant rural areas or across international borders This temporary labor migration less an option than a necessity for many is symptomatic of rural stagnation and increasing economic dependence and is most prevalent in regions where the base for agricultural development is poor Searching for Rural Development addresses the critical question of how rural development strategies can help provide more secure livelihoods for the millions who are now unable to sustain themselves and their families in local communities Focusing on Mexico Merilee S Grindle examines how rural families adapt to the paucity of local employment opportunities by pursuing complex strategies of income diversification She assesses various options for creating jobs in rural and semirural areas and considers how recommended rural development policies can be implemented through the political process Values and Participation Bambang Budijanto, 2009 The Chinese People's Movement Tony Saich, 2019-07-26 The pro democracy demonstrations of April May 1989 heralded the awakening of public opinion in urban China the brutal suppression in June revealed a Communist Party leadership severely out of touch with its own society and its aspirations The contributors to this timely book a number of whom witnessed the events described place these dramatic events within the broader context of China's developmental experience Rather than an instant reaction and description however this book grows out of the ongoing research interests and keen observational skills of the contributors Therefore it provides as historical developmental societal cultural and political context for the tragic event in terms of their antecedents ramifications and impact on the history of the Chinese People's movement Except-Africa Emery Roe, It is a commonplace that the problems of African rural development are becoming increasingly complex that is they have grown more numerous interrelated and varied This complexity has generated a multitude of development scenarios Among these is the doomsday scenario applied to every nation on the continent best captured in the phrase Everything works except in Africa Emery Roe argues that crisis scenarios generated by an expert usually non African elite are self serving and counterproductive Except Africa takes up the challenge of devising development scenarios that do justice to the continent's variegated reality developed industrial countries as well as those in the Third World Assessments of Regional and Global Environmental Risks Alexander E. Farrell, Jill Professor Jäger, 2010-09-30 As environmental challenges grow larger in scale and implications it is increasingly important to apply the best scientific knowledge in the decisionmaking process Editors Farrell and Jäger present environmental assessments as the bridge between the expert knowledge of scientists and engineers on the one hand and decisionmakers on the other When done well assessments have a positive impact on public policy the strategic decisions of private firms and ultimately the quality of life for many people This book is the result of an international interdisciplinary research project to analyze past environmental assessments and understand how their design influenced their effectiveness in bringing scientific evidence and insight into the decisionmaking process The case studies in the book feature a wide range of regional and global risks including ozone depletion transboundary air pollution and climate change Assessments of Regional and Global Environmental Risks offers several important contributions It provides a clear account of the choices faced in the design of environmental assessments and a clear description of the lessons learned from past assessments It illustrates why assessments are social processes not simply reports And while they identify no universal one size fits all design the authors find that to be effective environmental assessments must be viewed by those who produce and use them as being salient credible in their scientific support and legitimate or fair in design and execution Economic

Transforming Agrarian Economies

Thomas P. Tomich, Peter Kilby, Bruce F. Johnston, 2018-05-31 The world's 58 poorest countries are diverse in many respects but they share the characteristic of a labor force overwhelmingly dependent on agriculture Challenging the assumption that mass poverty and chronic hunger are insoluble problems this book systematically explores the multiple aspects of economic development in these countries which are home to 60 percent of the world's population The authors offer a broad based development strategy to raise incomes through agricultural productivity growth and expanded rural employment They present rich new information on the rural informal sector and on agriculture industry interactions and they analyze the impact of macroeconomic and social policies on the rural economy Policy instruments aimed at bringing about broad based development are carefully assessed from fiscal policy to development of new seeds and farm implements The book includes detailed case studies of countries that have seized or missed development opportunities Comparison of the successful economic transformations of Japan and the United States shows how key ideas which the authors call strategic notions have enabled policymakers to act with foresight Analyses of strategic choices in China the Soviet Union Taiwan Mexico Kenya and Tanzania also show how development strategies that emerge from the real world political economy reflect a mix of individual interests and strategic notions

International Agricultural Development

Carl K. Eicher, John M. Staatz, 1998-11-20 Other topics include market failures food insecurity rural poverty environmental degradation income and asset inequality fiscally sustainable organizations the changing roles of the public and private sector in research input delivery systems marketing and low rates of agricultural growth in much of sub Saharan Africa

Rethinking Sustainability

Jonathan Mark Harris, 2009-11-12 Bringing together the thoughts of economists political scientists anthropologists philosophers and agricultural policy professionals this volume focuses on the issues of sustainability in development Examining such topics as international trade political power gender roles legal institutions and agricultural research the contributors focus on the missing links in theory and practice that have been barriers to the achievement of truly sustainable development Any theory of sustainable development must take into account economic social and environmental dimensions Until recently the question What is development was often answered predominantly from the economist's perspective with high priority being assigned to expansion of economic output Social political institutional and ethical aspects have often been neglected But now that sustainable development has become a broadly accepted concept it is impossible to maintain a narrowly economic view of development For this reason the varied perspectives offered by the contributors to this volume are crucial to understanding the process of development as it relates to environmental sustainability and human well being The selection of articles is meant to be stimulating and provocative rather than comprehensive They are roughly divided between those dealing with broad theoretical issues concerning the economic political and social aspects of development Part I and those presenting more applied analysis Part II The common thread is a concern for examining which factors contribute to making development socially just and environmentally sound Rethinking Sustainability will be of interest to economists and social scientists development professionals and instructors seeking to offer their students a broad perspective on development issues Jonathan Harris is Senior Research Associate Global Development and Environment Institute at Tufts University as well as Adjunct Associate Professor of International Economics at Tufts University Fletcher School of Law New Technology and Rural Development M. J. Campbell, 1990 A comparative study of the impact of increased modernization in the rural sector on seven important developing countries This book should be of interest to students and lecturers in development studies
