Reflections On Multiple Modernities European Chinese And Other Interpretations:

Reflections on Multiple Modernities Dominic Sachsenmaier, S. Shmuel Noah Eisenstadt, Jens Riedel, 2002-01-01 Multiple Modernities is a departure from the classic sociological homogenization theories The edition presents an interdisciplinary discussion of the topic in sociological historical and economic dimensions It explores culturally specific forms of modernity with a focus on China and Europe

Reflections on Multiple Modernities Dominic Sachsenmaier, Jens Riedel, Shmuel N. Eisenstadt, 2002-10-01 This volume explores a rapidly emerging paradigm in the social sciences which assumes culturally specific forms of modernity Modernization is thus no longer equated with homogenization Leading scholars from history sociology area studies and economics discuss the concept s implications The first part covers a range of theoretical questions arising from the new approach Issues such as the common features of all modernities and their interrelation with regional particularities the reasons for antinomies of modernity and the preconditions for a peaceful coexistence of cultures are raised The second and third parts deal with Europe and China as two specific encounters with modernity the tensions between universalism and cultural identities both in past and present The fourth part analyzes how Multiple Modernities translates into formal and informal institutions of diverse capitalisms Authors include well known specialists Mark Juergensmeyer Hartmut Kaelble Bruce Mazlish and Frederic Wakeman

Delimiting Modernities Sven Trakulhun, Ralph Weber, 2015-02-12 This collection seeks to contribute to the many long standing discussions on modernity but also and more specifically to the more recent debates over trends to pluralize modernity These debates are current in many different academic disciplines such as sociology anthropology literature and postcolonial studies Hitherto most engagements with modernity in the plural have remained conspicuously confined to one or other intra disciplinary notion of modernities such as that of Shmuel Eisenstadt s multiple modernities which has triggered a host of conference papers and publications largely within sociology all the while it seems that the literatures for instance of multiple modernities and alternative modernities are each distinguished by the fact that one ignores the other It is the principal aim of this edited volume to subject these disciplinary discussions to a more encompassing view assembling contributions from different scholars who not only work in different disciplines and regional settings but who also engage with their research topics in a variety of approaches and at different levels of analysis The volume thus transcends the sometimes narrow boundaries of the debates over modernities within the established academic disciplines and seeks to turn the unavoidable friction brought about by this interdisciplinary setting into most original and insightful scholarship

Decadent Modernity Michela Coletta, 2018-10-31 How did Latin Americans represent their own countries as modern Through a comparative analysis of Argentina Uruguay and Chile the book investigates four themes that were central to definitions of Latin American modernity at the turn of the twentieth century race the autochthonous education and aesthetics

The Political Psychology of Attitudes towards the West Björn Goldstein, 2018-01-03 Why do some individuals from the imagined non West view the West favorably and others do not. Grounded in psychological authoritarianism and the psychological reactions to experiences of rejection, Björn Goldstein provides a theoretical model to explain and predict attitude toward the West. Using accounts from high ranking politicians from different socioeconomic groups in the Tamil Nadu region of India, a region independent from the often too emotionalized discourse regarding political Islam, Goldstein challenges the conventional narrative that the most important factors for attitude formation toward the West are experiences of disregard and oppression perpetrated by the West. Far beyond the personal characteristics of individuals, differences in attitudes follow a regular pattern of variables influencing opinion and attitude formation toward the West in each society. Scoring high on authoritarianism predicts anti-Western attitudes far better than socio-economic status, cultural or moral concerns, or normative differences do. Juvenile Delinquency and the Limits of Western Influence, 1850-2000 H. Ellis, 2014-08-13 This volume brings together a wide range of case studies from across the globe written by some of the leading scholars in the field to explore the complex ways in which historical understandings of childhood and juvenile delinquency have been constructed in a global context. Forgetting Faith? Isabel Karremann, Cornel Zwierlein, Inga Mai Groote, 2012-01-27 For the last decade, early modern studies have significantly been reshaped by raising new and different questions on the uses of religion. This religious turn has generated new discussion of the social processes at work in early modern Europe and their cultural effects from the struggle over religious rites and doctrines to the persecution of secret adherents to forbidden practices. The issue of religious pluralisation has been mostly debated in terms of dissent and escalation. But confessional controversy did not always erupt into hostilities over how to symbolize and perform the sacred nor lead to a paralysis of social agency. The order of the day may often have been to suspend confessional allegiances rather than enforce religious conflict, suggesting a pragmatic rather than polemic handling of religious plurality. This raises the urgent question of how normal transconfessional and even transreligious interaction was produced in a context of highly sharpened and always present reflexivity on religious differences. Our volume takes up this question and explores it from an interdisciplinary and interconfessional perspective. The title Forgetting Faith raises the question whether it was necessary or indeed possible to sidestep religious issues in specific contexts and for specific purposes. This does not mean, however, to describe early modern culture as a process of secularization. Rather, the collection invites discussion of the specific ways available to deal with confessional conflict in an oblivious mode precisely because faith still mattered more than many other social paradigms emerging at that time, such as nationhood, ethnic origin, or class defined through property. A Global Conceptual History of Asia, 1860-1940 Hagen Schulz-Forberg, 2015-10-06 Contributors to this volume explore the changing concepts of the social and the economic during a period of fundamental change across Asia. They challenge accepted explanations of how Western knowledge spread through Asia and show how versatile Asian intellectuals were in introducing European concepts and in blending them with local traditions. A Global History of Modern Historiography Georg Iggers, Q. Edward Wang, Supriya Mukherjee, 2016-09-01

The first book on historiography to adopt a global and comparative perspective on the topic A Global History of Modern Historiography looks not just at developments in the West but also at the other great historiographical traditions in Asia the Middle East and elsewhere around the world over the course of the past two and a half centuries This second edition contains fully updated sections on Latin American and African historiography discussion of the development of global history environmental history and feminist and gender history in recent years and new coverage of Russian historical practices Beginning in the mid eighteenth century the authors analyse historical currents in a changing political social and cultural context examining both the adaptation and modification of the Western influence on historiography and how societies outside Europe and America found their own ways in the face of modernization and globalization Supported by online resources including a selection of excerpts from key historiographical texts this book offers an up to date account of the status of historical writing in the global era and is essential reading for all students of modern historiography The SAGE construct collective identities This book examines the relationships between sociology and projects of national identity construction and presents a critique of Shmuel N Eisenstadt the prominent Israeli sociologist known as the father of Israeli sociology The book focuses on Eisenstadt s sociology of Israel as a case of knowledge construction within an ideological system and examines the relationships between his various sociological analyses of Israeli society and the Zionist imaginary namely the deeply entrenched political myths and historiographical narratives that constitute Israel s hegemonic national identity By emphasizing the interrelation between textuality identity and loaded language the volume seeks to demythologize Eisenstadt s sociology of Israel Three major concepts in Eisenstadt s scholarship are specifically thematized integration civilization and modernities In each of these foci the author shows how Eisenstadt s sociological conjectures reproduce dominant Zionist historiographical representations of the past rationalize prevalent social hierarchies reify the boundaries of a national collective Self and render legitimacy to Israel s governing ethnocratic tendencies underlying the premises of the Zionist settler colonial project Sociological Knowledge and Collective Identity will appeal to those interested in the interconnectedness of sociology and political memory as well as in a radical postcolonial reconstruction of sociology

Modernity at the Beginning of the 21st Century Volker Schmidt, 2008-12-11 Modernity is back on sociology s agenda From the beginnings of sociology as an academic discipline questions surrounding the meaning and consequences of modernity have fascinated generations of sociologists The initial interest in the concept was inspired by a sense of a deep rupture and crisis afflicting European society a sense that society was approaching something fundamentally different from the past an entirely new form of societal organization that bore little resemblance to anything known before Where exactly this transformation was headed was by no means clear but around the 18th century a growing number of European intellectuals and scholars realized that the changes that had been in the making since the late 15th century were irreversible and could not be contained in any particular region or confined to particular sectors of society but would ultimately transform all spheres of life Like other thinkers sociologists observed this transformation with awe and their attitude towards it has always been ambivalent The 20th century during which modernity gradually began to break through globally was also a century during which many sociologists became increasingly disillusioned with the promises of the modern project But with the exhaustion of the energies of postmodernism the intellectual movement that wanted to bury modernity the interest in modernity began to resurface again not least because it became increasingly clear that the world is far from approaching a societal condition pointing systematically beyond modernity Instead we are witnessing an intensification of modernization processes around the world But what is modernity anyway The aim of the present volume is to contribute to the ongoing discussion about the meaning of modernity and about the significance of modernization processes in non Western societies As befits a subject matter as controversial and complex at this one the book s chapters offer no conclusive answers to the questions they raise and address The debate about modernity must and will continue and one hopes that it will be conducted in an atmosphere of mutual respect despite sometimes fierce disagreement between the participants For only if we listen to each other can we make genuine intellectual progress

Buettner, 2013-10-23 Regional development strategies are becoming more similar all around Europe even though regional differences are more pronounced than ever and many European regions have become more autonomous actors This thesis of a peculiar standardized diversification of sub national space in the modern European Union is the point of departure of this book. Based upon the analytical premises of Stanford School Sociological Institutionalism, Sebastian M. Böttner studies regional mobilization in contemporary Europe from a new and innovative perspective. He highlights the importance of scientific expertise and global scientific models in contemporary regional development practice and exemplifies their significance with the example of region building in Poland in the course of EU integration. This new wave of regional mobilization is not just conceived as an effect of local, national or European politics but as an expression of a larger conceptual shift in governing society and space. This well researched and clearly argued book not only provides fresh insights into region building and regionalization in contemporary European space but also contributes to the new sociology of Europeanization. It will be an illuminating read for scholars and students in Sociology, European and EU studies, International Relations, Cultural Studies, Geography, Regional Science, Polish Studies and related subject areas.
