Reforming and Restructuring the Federal Government United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Governmental Affairs, 1996 The Future of Russian Gas and Gazprom Jonathan P. Stern, 2005 The Russian gas industry provides 50% of Russian domestic energy supplies a substantial proportion of CIS gas supplies and around 20% of European gas demand Declines in production at existing fields mean that Gazprom will face increasingly difficult decisions about moving to higher cost fields on the Yamal Peninsula The alternative will be increasing imports from Central Asian countries and allowing other Russian gas producers to increase their role in the industry Russian exports to Europe will gradually increase and deliveries of Russian LNG will commence to Asia and the both coasts of North America Pipeline gas deliveries to East Asian countries may have a longer time horizon Export projects aimed at new markets will depend crucially on the maintenance of oil and gas prices at the levels of 2003 05 European exports will also depend on the pace of EU market liberalisation and Gazprom's ability to agree mutually acceptable terms for transit principally with Ukraine and Belarus Reform liberalisation and restructuring of the Russian gas industry have been more substantial than has generally been recognised Most important has been price reform which in 2005 allowed Russian industrial customers to become profitable to serve at regulated prices Price increases may significantly reduce future increases in domestic gas demand The increasing need for production from companies other than Gazprom will ensure that liberalised access to networks expands considerably over the next decade In the 2000s Gazprom reclaimed its CIS gas business from intermediaries while maintaining its de facto monopoly of exports to Europe and establishing a similar degree of authority over future exports to Asia The merger of Gazprom and Rosneft will provide the potential to become a force in the domestic and international oil markets particularly given the authority that the president has conferred on the company in terms of Russian energy policy Modernizing Infrastructure in Transformation Economies Christian von Hirschhausen, 2002-01-01 The design of Congress. House. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on Foreign Operations, Export Financing, and Related Programs,2002 Adjusting to EU Enlargement Constantine A. Stephanou,2006-01-01 Before the latest EU enlargement substantial changes in the integration process were predicted as a result of the accession of 10 new member states with some forecasting cataclysmic consequences This book the first ex post assessment of EU enlargement provides evidence to the contrary while also providing examples in which the new members have been able to influence the EU policy output with their liberal attitudes on economic and social policy Regulating Gas Liberalization Anton Ming-Zhi Gao,2010-10-20 This is the first book to analyze in a comparative way the detailed development of the unbundling and open access regimes across three continents It is the author s contention that these two legal forms should be more widely implemented than they are at present In each of five substantial chapters on the United States Europe Japan South Korea and Taiwan the author first focuses on the proposed or current laws and industrial practices on service account functional legal and ownership unbundling and independent system operator and then on those of different open access regimes mainly including regulated and negotiated third party access insofar as they have been developed in each location Using empirical evidence from Europe the United States and Japan that a well formulated and comprehensive liberalization can bring about more advantages than disadvantages he shows how well designed unbundling and open access regimes may accomplish the following inject much needed competition into gas exploration exploitation import production and retailing reform and re regulate non competitive sectors such as transportation distribution and storage balance potential conflicts between energy security and competition and support interests such as environmental
