Refugees Past And Present:

The Making of a Refugee Tasoulla Hadjiyanni, 2002-03-30 Through an examination of interviews provided by 100 children of refugees in Cyprus born after their family's displacement Hadjiyanni illustrates the formation of a refugee consciousness an identity adopted by many children who never experienced the actual displacement of their family Focusing on the process by which a child born into a refugee family develops a refugee identity the book identifies nine dimensions that inform this consciousness Establishing the family as the primary transmitter of the refugee identity and the child as its constructor the author points to the power of homeplace in forming and supporting such an identity The book challenges the notion that refugee consciousness is a separate identity and a crisis by reinterpreting it as a resistance to adversity Shedding new light on what it means to be a refugee this work is a welcome addition to the field Beginning with a discussion of the meaning of the term refugee and how it has been adopted by the children of some refugees in Cyprus the author moves to an examination of the meaning of past and present to the formation of a refugee consciousness She then looks to the causes of such identity formation focusing on the transference of identity from parent to child and the effects of past loss on children who have not actually experienced displacement Housing issues are also examined as a contributing factor as refugee housing is typically distinct and constrained compared to housing for native citizens of a community The author concludes her work with a discussion of the implications of the Cyprus example for both the future and for general refugee studies

Discourses of Memory and Refugees Siobhan Brownlie, 2020-02-06 This book explores the discourse by and about refugees and asylum seekers in relation to memory with a particular focus on the United Kingdom A series of studies using different analytical approaches is undertaken and together the studies shed light on this overlooked area of research The studies or facets presented in the monograph cover a range of contexts and discursive genres a joint BBC refugee authored television documentary refugees oral histories creative life writing by asylum seekers parliamentarians debates a reworking of canonical texts and sites in a protest campaign and non fiction testimonies and fictional works by later generations of refugee background The monograph introduces facet methodology to memory studies arguing that this approach could encourage interdisciplinary research in the field

The Land Beyond Gudmundur Alfredsson,P. Macalister-Smith,2021-10-18 This book collects Professor Atle Grahl Madsen s essays on refugee law and policy in a single volume including commentary on the principles of refugee law and on important refugee crisis situations Arranged in chronological order the compilation of work contains all the author s scholarly English language articles dedicated to the needs and rights of refugees and asylum seekers The republication of these articles makes an important part of Atle Grahl Madsen s written work more easily accessible than before The objective of the book is to provide a new perspective on Grahl Madsen s approach his ideas and the results of his research and thinking As the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees Mrs Sadako Ogata has stated in the foreword The timelessness of Professor Grahl Madsen s writings stems from his conscientious and comprehensive research and his clarity of thought as an analyst His dedication and precision should serve as both an inspiration and aspiration to all who work to defend the rights of the displaced The collection shows the extent and quality of Atle Grahl Madsen s legacy in the field of refugee law and human rights and demonstrates the diversity of the subject of international refugee law and its relevance to the world in which we live

Embodied Violence and Agency in Refugee Regimes Sabine Bauer-Amin,Leonardo Schiocchet,Maria Six-Hohenbalken,2022-09-01 Multiple refugee regimes govern the lives of forced migrants simultaneously but in an often conflicting way As a mechanism of inclusion exclusion they tend to engender the violence they sought to dissipate Protection and control channel agency through mechanisms of either tutelage and victimisation or criminalisation This book contrasts multiple groups of refugees and refugee regimes revealing the inherent coercive violence of refugee regimes from displacement and expulsion to stereotypification and exclusion in host countries and academic knowledge essentialisation This violence is international national society based internalised and embodied and it urgently needs due scholarly attention

NATO - Past, Present And Future Edmond Nawrotzky-Török,2002-01-31 Inhaltsangabe Abstract

When talking about integration one must think first of all about the problems such an integration means Many Romanians nowadays look at the integration into the European and Euro Atlantic structures only as a means of better living standards But very few Romanians might be willing to pay the price for the integration Nobody in Romania seems to know exactly the direction we are heading to But there must certainly be changes of the people s mentality if we want to achieve something at all Yet this problem does not concern Romanians alone The West generally regards Romania as a source of crime and at least for the moment does not even want to talk to Romania about our integration into the European Union although the negotiations have been started with all potential candidates at the same time Recently when about 500 gypsies created problems in Austria the country asked Hungary and the Czech Republic to introduce the visa system for Romanian citizens

They obviously wanted the Romanians to be even more humiliated than they already were lining up also at Hungary's and the Czech Republic's embassies in order to be able to travel to those countries. Minister Andrei Plesu, the Romanian Foreign Affairs Minister, said: If 500 gypsies are able to destabilise Austria, they are either first-hand merchandise or Austria is a little bit frail. On the other hand, one cannot deny that Romanian citizens keep causing trouble to western European countries. But the problem is that dubious people manage somehow to get visas while honest people are denied the basic right of travelling to foreign countries only because a few of their fellow citizens are being considered troublemakers. If no visas were required, only a small negligible margin of the Romanian citizens travelling abroad would be denied the permission to travel to western European countries again. Then there is the problem of culture. If you ask a Romanian citizen about the capital of a western European state, it is less possible that he will not know it than if you asked a western European about Romania's capital. For instance, many Frenchmen are convinced that Budapest is Romania's capital. A French band performing in Bucharest was warmly welcomed and acclaimed until its members shouted: I love you Budapest. Of course, the fact that western Europeans do not know eastern European capitals does not mean that people in western Europe are not civilised. Romania

The Refugee Convention at Fifty Joanne van Selm, 2003-01-01. The year 2001 marked the fiftieth anniversary of the Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees. The Refugee Convention at Fifty is a commemorative volume but it is one that points toward a future that will see a continued need for refugee protection. The volume performs a much-needed task for the current era; it carefully examines this key legal text which impacts not only the law but also the politics and sociology of forced migration. Joanne van Selm and her coeditors have collected essays by scholars from a wide range of disciplines, NGO staff members, international organization professionals, and national-level policy makers who discuss the impact of this legal document on forced migrants, the states they migrate from and to, and the societies they join and leave behind. Sub-themes covered include the potential for solidarity between states in ensuring that legal and political commitments are upheld, regional approaches to refugee protection and displacement, and the human and social consequences of forced migration for those covered by or excluded from refugee protection. The geographic and disciplinary spread of the book is unparalleled. The Refugee Convention at Fifty sets for the contentious and critical study of refugees the high standards for scholarship and innovative thinking that will serve as precedent for future policy making and implementation in the field.

The Status of Palestinian Refugees in International Law Alex Takkenberg, 1998. 7. Scope of the study. An Outline of International Law Dominique De Stoop, 2019-04-01. Written by Dr Dominique De Stoop, former Senior Assistant Secretary of the International and General Legal Branch of the Australian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade. An Outline of International Law offers a clear, comprehensive explanation of the multifaceted realm of international law. Dr De Stoop provides background information on the sources of international laws, their scope, and their effectiveness. Each chapter covers a specific area of law, including the following: Treaty negotiations, State sovereignty, Human rights, and refugee rights, Criminal offences, and terrorism. The law of the sea and international shipping law Environmental law and conservation International and domestic armed conflicts Disarmament and arms control Economic and trade law A valuable resource for law students civil servants and members of intergovernmental organizations An Outline of International Law is your inclusive guide to the international agreements customary international laws and judicial decisions governing the global community Oxford Textbook of Migrant Psychiatry Dinesh Bhugra, 2021-02-04 Migrant psychiatry is an evolving subdiscipline within cultural psychiatry that deals with the impact of migration on the mental health of those who have migrated and those who work with these groups and provide services to them Stress related to migration affects migrants and their extended families either directly or indirectly The process of migration is not just a phase but leads on to a series of adjustments including acculturation which may occur across generations Factors such as changes in diet attitudes and beliefs and overall adjustment are important in settling down and making the individuals feel secure This period of adjustment will depend upon the individual migrant's pre migration experiences migration process and post migration experiences but also upon an individual's personality social support and emotional response to migration Socio demographic factors such as age gender educational and economic status will all play a role in post migration adjustment In order to understand the impact on individuals not only the type of migration and different stressors but also the types of psychological mechanisms at a personal level and the resources and processes at a societal level need to be explored Despite the number of refugees and asylum seekers around the world increasing at an astonishing rate the mental health needs of migrants are often ignored by policy makers and clinicians The Oxford Textbook of Migrant Psychiatry is designed to serve as the comprehensive reference resource on the mental health of migrants bringing together both theoretical and practical aspects of the mental health needs of refugees and asylum seekers for researchers and professionals Individual chapters summarise theoretical constructs related to theories of migration the impact of migration on mental health and adjustment collective trauma individual identity and diagnostic fallacies The book also covers the practical aspects of patient management including cultural factors ethnopsychopharmacology therapeutic interaction and therapeutic expectation and psychotherapy Finally the book will examine special clinical problems and special patient groups Part of the authoritative Oxford Textbooks in Psychiatry series this resource will serve as an essential reference for psychiatrists mental health professionals general practitioners primary care physicians social workers policy makers and voluntary agencies dealing with refugees and asylum seekers Refugee Coloniality Bosco Opi, 2024-04-27 This book presents a decolonial and Afrocentric critique of prolonged encampment of refugees centred on the case study of refugee camps in Kenya introduced through the author's decades long experience of forced displacement His positionality as a former refugee contributes to a wider discussion on representation voice and power within the refugee studies literature Likewise the revisiting of the refugee camp as site and tool of power from a colonial perspective is an important and timely contribution to the literature This book examines the camp as a colonial innovation and the enduring colonial logics of supposedly humanitarian extended encampment Drawing on the anti colonial theorists such as Fanon Mbembe and Nyerere etc it argues for an Africa without borders or encampment The study is interdisciplinary encompassing forced migration refugee studies camp studies decolonial studies and African studies More broadly it seeks to contribute to the literature on the politics of asylum in Africa through a critical examination of the colonial origins and the practice of encampment in Kenya

Psychosocial Wellness of Refugees Frederick L. Ahearn, 2000 In recent years scholars in the fields of refugee studies and forced migration have extended their areas of interest and research into the phenomenon of displacement human response to it and ways to intervene to assist those affected increasingly focusing on the emotional and social impact of displacement on refugees and their adjustment to the traumatic experiences In the process the positive concept of psychosocial wellness was developed as discussed in this volume In it noted scholars address the strengths and limitations of their investigations citing examples from their work with refugees from Afghanistan Cambodia Vietnam Palestine Cuba Nicaragua Haiti Eastern Europe Bosnia and Chile The authors discuss how they define psychosocial wellness as well as the issues of sample selection measurement reliability and validity refugee narratives and voices and the ability to generalize findings and apply these to other populations The key question that has guided many of these investigations and underlies the premise of this book is what happens to an ordinary person who has experienced an extraordinary event This volume also highlights the fact that those involved in such research must also deal with their own emotional responses as they hear victims tell of killing torture humiliation and dispossession The volume will therefore appeal to practitioners of psychology psychiatry social work nursing and anthropology However its breadth and the evaluation of the strengths and disadvantages of both qualitative and quantitative methods also make it an excellent text for students

The Internally Displaced Person in International Law Romola Adeola, 2020-10-30 While the plight of persons displaced within the borders of states has emerged as a global concern not much attention has been given to this specific category of persons in international legal scholarship Unlike refugees internally displaced persons remain within the states in which they are displaced Current statistics indicate that there are more people displaced within state borders than persons displaced outside states Romola Adeola examines the protection of the internally displaced person under international law considering existing legal regimes at various levels of governance and institutional mechanisms for internally displaced persons
