Students' Innate Power Louise El Yaafouri, 2022-03-31 This book explores the effects of trauma on newcomer students and presents stress mitigating strategies that empower these multilingual students as they transition to a new environment. Diverse insights and experiences bring high powered learning spaces to life. However the cultural backgrounds of newcomer students and their families can be very different from the dominant norms of the new community resulting in misalignments that constitute a persistent challenge. In addition the process of arriving can exacerbate stress. Entering a new school or classroom means situating oneself within a new context of language culture community and shifting personal identities. This transition shock contributes to a sense of diminished power. In serving these students we can't afford to leave transition shock out of our conversations about trauma. We must not only stitch together pieces of culturally responsive practice and trauma informed care but also become practitioners of stress mitigating strategies that empower newcomer students. We must focus instruction on our students unique identities. We must restore their power. In Restoring Students Innate Power newcomer educator and cultural competency expert Louise El Yaafouri presents an understanding of transition shock and how stress and trauma affect recent arrivals. The four pillars of transition shock and how they affect learning. How students see themselves and how the cultural aspects of their identities inform teachers work in mitigating transition shock. How social emotional learning links to trauma informed practice. This book isn't exclusively about trauma it's about restoring power. The distinction is critical. Focusing on the trauma or traumatic event roots us in the past. Restoration of power moves us forward.

January 25 2011 was a watershed moment for Egypt and a transformative experience for the young men and women who changed the course of their nation's history. Tahrir's Youth tells the story of the organized youth behind the mass uprising that brought about the spectacular collapse of the Mubarak regime. Rusha Latif follows the trajectory of the movement from the perspective of the Revolutionary Youth Coalition RYC a key front forged in Tahrir Square during the early days of the revolt. Drawing on firsthand testimonies and her own direct experience she offers insight into the motives hopes strategies successes failures and disillusionments of the movement's leaders. Her account details the challenges these activists faced as they attempted to steer the movement they had set in motion and highlights the factors leading to their struggle's defeat despite its initial promise. Tahrir's Youth questions the belief that Egypt's revolution was spontaneous and leaderless.
