Shadows of Empire Laurie Jo Sears, 1996 Shadows of Empire explores Javanese shadow theater as a staging area for negotiations between colonial power and indigenous traditions Charting the shifting boundaries between myth and history in Javanese Mahabharata and Ramayana tales Laurie J Sears reveals what happens when these stories move from village performances and palace manuscripts into colonial texts and nationalist journals and most recently comic books and novels Historical anthropological and literary in its method and insight this work offers a dramatic reassessment of both Javanese literary theatrical production and Dutch scholarship on Southeast Asia Though Javanese shadow theater wayang has existed for hundreds of years our knowledge of its history performance practice and role in Javanese society only begins with Dutch documentation and interpretation in the nineteenth century Analyzing the Mahabharata and Ramayana tales in relation to court poetry Islamic faith Dutch scholarship and nationalist journals Sears shows how the shadow theater as we know it today must be understood as a hybrid of Javanese and Dutch ideas and interests inseparable from a particular colonial moment In doing so she contributes to a re-envisioning of European histories that acknowledges the influence of Asian African and New World cultures on European thought and to a rewriting of colonial and postcolonial Javanese histories that questions the boundaries and content of history and story myth and allegory colonialism and culture Shadows of Empire will appeal not only to specialists in Javanese culture and historians of Indonesia but also to a wide range of scholars in the areas of performance and literature anthropology Southeast Asian studies and postcolonial studies

Shadow's Secret Missions on Cobblestone Street Robin Wickens,2024-06-07 The moon a luminous pearl in the velvet sky cast a silver glow on the cobblestone street below Shadows stretched and twisted dancing to a silent tune as the wind whistled through the alleyways Whispers carried on the night breeze seemed to tell tales of secrets and hidden wonders weaving a tapestry of mystery that enveloped the entire village of Hawthorne From the inky depths of a doorway a pair of emerald eyes emerged gleaming like precious jewels They belonged to a creature shrouded in legend and mystery a being of grace and stealth whose very presence held an air of enchantment A cat sleek and silent stepped into the moonlight its paws padding softly across the cobblestones Its fur as black as the midnight sky shimmered with an otherworldly sheen Each movement was fluid and deliberate as if choreographed by the moon itself The cat paused tilting its head its ears twitching as it listened to the symphony of the night The faint rustle of leaves the distant hoot of an owl and the murmured conversations of villagers settling into their homes for the night all formed a harmonious backdrop to the cat s silent vigil This was Shadow a cat known throughout Cobblestone Street not just for his sleek appearance but for the air of mystery that always seemed to accompany him To the villagers Shadow was a guardian of sorts a silent sentinel who watched over the night and ensured that peace reigned while they slept Children whispered tales of his bravery and adults respected his presence believing that wherever Shadow walked he brought with him an invisible cloak of protection

Remembering and Imagining the Holocaust Christopher Bigsby,2006-10-19 This is a meditation on memory and on the ways in which memory has operated in the work of writers for whom the Holocaust was a defining event It is also an exploration of the ways in which fiction and drama have attempted to approach a subject so resistant to the imagination Beginning with W G Sebald for whom memory and the Holocaust were the roots of a special fascination Bigsby moves on to consider those writers Sebald himself valued including Arthur Miller Anne Frank Primo Levi and Peter Weiss and those whose lives crossed in the bleak world of the camps in fact or fiction The book offers a chain of memories It sets witness against fiction truth against wilful deceit It asks the question who owns the Holocaust those who died those who survived to bear witness those who appropriated its

Shadows Robert Pollock, 2002 David Yorke retired from an English espionage unit that nobody except its members ever knew existed He was recruited and trained to kill he became the best there was This is his story as told to a professional writer It records the devastating personal damage inflicted on Yorke by his job He was brought out of retirement and given the option of being loaned to an American government security division He accepted because he felt this final assignment could provide the justification for his life He came to possess the antiviral to a newly developed virulent smallpox virus against which there was no known antidote existing supplies of the traditional antiviral would be ineffective The antiviral would be the only defense against a secret distribution method of the smallpox virus that could devastate the American Continent Time was of the essence The writer woke up why was the old guy telling him all this so it was recorded What he had disclosed was potentially more devastating than the 9 11 event and he wasn't over yet There was one more chapter to come The final chapter takes place in Central Park in New York City in early 2002 Studies in Mystical Religion Rufus Matthew Jones, 1919
