

Looking After Each Other: Social Welfare in New Zealand

Social welfare is when the government gives some people money to help them afford the basics of life in New Zealand.

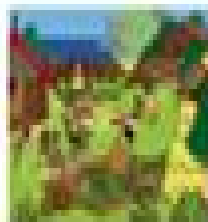

The New Zealand government has been trying different ways of helping people for a long time.

Social Welfare in Māori Communities

Traditional Māori communities have always had their ways of looking after others who need help. Māori lived together in a community. They shared land, food and other items.

Because of the cold there had to be a way to stay warm. Clothes were made from animal skins.

Some Māori communities were helped by the government when they arrived in New Zealand.
