Third Series. Maps and Atlases Library of Congress. Copyright Office,1971      Ante Bellum Houses of the Bluegrass Clay Lancaster,2014-07-15 The ante bellum homes of Lexington and Fayette County Kentucky are both more numerous and more distinctive in design than those of many communities of similar age Founded in 1775 Lexington by the turn of the century had become the chief cultural center north of New Orleans and west of the Alleghenies During the eight decades between the Revolution and the Civil War Fayette County was the focus of converging streams of immigration and a phenomenal amount of building activity took place in Lexington and the surrounding area Although local builders followed the trends of national architecture they were not primarily concerned with correctness and developed a provincial style which was distinguished by originality and a high level of craftsmanship In Ante Bellum Houses of the Bluegrass Clay Lancaster seeks to define the indigenous character of Fayette County building which he concludes is of unusually distinguished quality A second aim is the presentation of authentic data as a guide for intelligent restoration of existing old buildings many of which have been defaced by unnecessary changes and inappropriate additions He traces the development of house building in this restricted area from the first crude log cabins through frame stone and early brick residences to the substantial homes built by wealthy landowners and merchants in the mid nineteenth century The text is supplemented by 200 line drawings which present the essential features of each building free from the later alterations and decay which would be recorded by the camera These illustrations have been compiled on the basis of intensive research from old photographs maps drawings and other records An album of halftone illustrations many of which are reproductions of old photographs of buildings which have been altered or demolished supplements these illustrations
