Trade Policy in the Asia-Pacific Vinod K. Aggarwal, Seungjoo Lee, 2010-11-03 East Asian countries are now pursuing greater formal economic institutionalization weaving a web of bilateral and minilateral preferential trade agreements Scholarly analysis of formal East Asian regionalism focuses on international political and economic factors such as the end of the Cold War the Asian financial crisis or the rising Sino Japanese rivalry Yet this work pays inadequate attention to the strategies of individual government agencies business groups labor unions and NGOs across the region Moreover most studies also fail to adequately characterize different types of trade arrangements often lumping together bilateral accords with minilateral ones and transregional agreements with those within the region To fully understand this cross national variance this book argues that researchers must give greater attention to the domestic politics within East Asian countries and the U S involving the interplay of these subnational players With contributions from leading country and regional trade specialists this book examines East Asian and American trade strategies through the lens of a domestic bargaining game approach with a focus on the interplay of interests ideas and domestic institutions within the context of broader international shifts With respect to domestic politics the chapters show how subnational actors engage in lobbying both of their own governments and through their links to others in the region They also trace the evolution of interests and ideas over time helping us to generate a better understanding of historical trends in the region In addition to scholars of East Asian and comparative regionalism this book will be of interest to policy makers concerned with international trade and U S Asia relations and those interested in understanding the rich trade institutional landscape that we see emerging in the Asia Pacific

The Chinese Communist Youth League Konstantinos Tsimonis, 2025-10-01 The Chinese Communist Youth League is the largest youth political organization in the world with over 80 million members Former Chinese President Hu Jintao was a firm supporter of the League and believed that it could play a bigger role in winning the hearts and minds of Chinese youth by actively engaging with their interests and demands Accordingly he provided the League with a new youth work mandate to increase its capacity for responsiveness under the slogan keep the Party assured and the youth satisfied This original investigation of the hitherto unexamined organization uses a combination of interviews surveys and ethnography to explore how the League implemented Hu's mandate at both local and national levels exposing the contradictory nature of some of its campaigns By doing so it also sheds light on the reasons for Xi Jinping's turn against the League during his first term in office The Chinese Communist Youth League Juniority and Responsiveness in a Party Youth Organization develops the original concept of juniority to capture the complex ways that generational power is institutionalized alienating young people from official political processes with significant implications for China's political development. The book will be of interest to researchers and students of Chinese politics as well as to scholars of comparative youth politics and sociology.

Political Culture and Participation in Rural China Yang Zhong, 2013-06-17. Despite China's rapid urbanisation and industrialisation, most Chinese still live in the vast countryside or have rural household registration. Although there was significant economic improvement in rural areas in the 1980s, the rural economy has been stagnating or deteriorating since then, and the book argues that the rural-urban income gap is giving rise to the potential for political instability throughout China. This book, based on extensive original research including interview fieldwork in rural areas, examines the nature of political culture and participation in rural China, discussing issues such as the support or lack of it for democratic values, levels of political interest, the ways in which Chinese peasants interact with village and local officials, subjective factors that motivate them to vote or not to vote in village elections, and rural people's views on market-oriented economic reforms, local and national government, and the Communist Party. The book argues that although hitherto peasants' riots, sit-ins, and demonstrations have been localised and uncoordinated, they are frequent and have the potential to cause serious political crises for China's rulers. It concludes by considering the future political development of China's vast countryside.

Endogenous Origins of Economic Reforms in India and China Rajiv G. Maluste, 2011-07. Attitudinal change in the context of economic reforms has been referred to in Rodrik and Subramanian 2005, DeLong 2003, Kohli 1989, and Panagariya 2004, 2008. This dissertation provides empirical support for this literature, establishing an earlier start for India's economic policy liberalisation than presented in stylized accounts. It demonstrates the endogenous nature of the origins of these policy shifts. Attitudinal change literature had directed attention to the need for further research into India's policy changes of the early 1980s and for studying broader comparability issues in other developing countries. This research makes a contribution towards filling these gaps. This dissertation shows that India started its economic liberalisation under the Indira Gandhi administration from 1980 to 1984. These findings depart from the conventional view that India's economic policy changes were initiated by the Narasimha Rao government in 1991 or by the Rajiv Gandhi administration in the mid to late 1980s. The dissertation establishes that policy shifts of the early 1980s had endogenous origins in the political leadership's attitudinal changes. The Indira Gandhi administration of the early 1980s revisited the statist policies of its previous tenure from 1966 to 1977. The new approach entailed more openness towards private enterprise, scaling back the role of the public sector, and starting India's integration into the global economy. The dissertation also discusses the comparable role of attitudinal changes at the start of China's policy liberalisation led by Deng Xiaoping from 1978 to 1982. It focuses on the significance and challenges faced by China's political leadership in bringing about societal attitudinal change. The dissertation concludes by drawing comparisons between India and China, developing a linkage between their endogenous attitudinal changes and economic policy liberalisation.

Chongqing's Red Culture Campaign Xiao Mei, 2017-07-06 Between 2009 and 2012 the city of Chongqing came into the national and even international spotlight as it became the geographical centre of the Singing Red Smashing Black campaign and later the political storm that swept China Chongqing's Red Culture Campaign drew an incredible amount of interest at the time but speculation and prejudice has since blurred the public understanding of the sensational story that ties the campaign with the rise and fall of a political star Bo Xilai This book therefore seeks to study the nature of Chongqing's Red Culture Campaign and the interaction between the political programme and the practices of its participants Based on fieldwork conducted in Chongqing it seeks to question whether the Red Culture Campaign was actually a return to Maoist revolutionary mass campaigning whilst examining the relationship between the CCP's political power and the lives of the ordinary people as reflected in the case of the campaign Ultimately it highlights that the campaign was not in fact a real Maoist mass movement Although it followed the pre-existing model of past mass campaigns in China containing a series of frequent and highly performative operations Xiao Mei argues that it essentially demonstrated critical features of simulation By contributing to our understanding of the discrepancies between a designed political programme and what it actually becomes when implemented on the ground this book will be of use to students and scholars of Chinese Studies Politics and Sociology
