TEILHARD, EINSTEIN, AND THE MEANING OF FAITH

Wednesday October 25th
2-3.30pm (UK time)

PRESENTER:
Dr John F. Haught

John F. Haught is an American theologian and a Distinguished Research Professor at Georgetown University. He specializes in Roman Catholic systematic theology, with a particular interest in issues pertaining to physical cosmology, evolutionary biology, geology, and Christianity.

Although Albert Einstein denied the existence of a personal God, he considered himself deeply religious, and he thought that good science cannot take place without faith. To understand what he meant by religion and faith, this presentation will place the celebrated physicist in "conversation" with his contemporary, Pierre Teilhard de Chardin, SJ. The two scientists had been living in the United States within miles of each other when they both died in 1955 only days apart. If they had ever met, and if they had been able to talk about science and faith, how would the conversation have gone? What would they have said to each other about prayer, God, and the relationship of theology to science? This talk, with the presenter as "moderator" of the conversation, will attempt to outline points of agreement and disagreement between the two great scientists and religious thinkers.
