Philanthropy in Negro Education Ullin Whitney Leavell, 1930 Dangerous Donations Eric Anderson, Alfred A. Moss, 1999 Dangerous Donations explores the important limitations on the power of these foundations and their agents The northern philanthropies had to move cautiously and conservatively seeking the cooperation of southern whites whenever possible They believed African Americans could not be excluded from education and must be prepared for productive participation in the South whatever its social system for the safety of the region and the nation as a whole Copyright Libri GmbH All rights reserved Philanthropy in Black Higher Education V. Avery, 2013-07-17 Analyzing the circumstances surrounding the creation and development of the Atlanta University System this book shows how philanthropists positive involvement created a unique higher educational center for black Americans that exists nowhere else in the nation

Uplifting a People Marybeth Gasman,Katherine V. Sedgwick,2005 Philanthropy is typically considered to be within the province of billionaires This book broadens that perspective by highlighting modest acts of giving by African Americans on behalf of their own people Examining the important tradition of Black philanthropy this groundbreaking work documents its history its beginning as a response to discrimination through self help among freed slaves and its expansion to include the support of education religion the arts and legal efforts on behalf of civil rights Using diverse approaches the authors illuminate a new world of philanthropy one that will be of interest to scholars and students alike Chapters review the contributions of such major figures as Booker T Washington and Thurgood Marshall and discuss the often surprising practices and methods of contemporary African American donors Cultural Capital and Black Education V.P. Franklin,2004-12-01 A discussion of the contributions made by African Americans to public and private black schools in the USA in the 19th and 20th centuries It suggests that cultural capital from African American communities may be important for closing the gap in the funding of black schools in the 21st century The Journal of Negro Education Charles Henry Thompson,1981 The Traditionally Black Institutions of Higher Education, 1860 to 1982 Susan Hill,1985 The Education of Blacks in the South, 1860-1935 James D. Anderson,2010-01-27 James Anderson critically reinterprets the history of southern black education from Reconstruction to the Great Depression By placing black schooling within a political cultural and economic context he offers fresh insights into black commitment to education the peculiar significance of Tuskegee Institute and the conflicting goals of various philanthropic groups among other matters Initially ex slaves attempted to create an educational system that would support and extend their emancipation but their children were pushed into a system of industrial education that presupposed black political and economic subordination This conception of education and social order supported by northern industrial philanthropists some black educators and most southern school officials conflicted with the aspirations of ex slaves and their descendants resulting at the turn of the century in a bitter national debate over the purposes of black education Because blacks lacked economic and political power white elites were able to control the structure and content of black elementary secondary normal and college education during the first third of the twentieth century Nonetheless blacks persisted in their struggle to develop an educational system in accordance with their own needs and desires Resurgent Politics and Educational Progressivism in the New South, North Carolina, 1890-1913 H. Leon Prather, 1979 The two major purposes of this study are to describe how a unique mixture of politics and racial attitudes coalesced to involve education and to identify and analyze the major forces associated with and propelling the public school movement between 1902 and 1913 in the South Charity, Philanthropy, and Civility in American History Lawrence J. Friedman, Mark D. McGarvie, 2003 This book presents professional historians addressing the dominant issues and theories offered to explain the history of American philanthropy and its role in American society The essays develop and enlighten the major themes proposed by the books editors oftentimes taking issue with each other in the process The overarching premise is that philanthropic activity in America has its roots in the desires of individuals to impose their visions of societal ideals or conceptions of truth upon their society To do so they have organized in groups frequently defining themselves and their group s role in society in the process Building a New Educational State Joan

Malczewski, 2016-11-30 Building a New Educational State examines the dynamic process of black education reform during the Jim Crow era in North Carolina and Mississippi Through extensive archival research Joan Malczewski explores the initiatives of foundations and reformers at the top the impact of their work at the state and local level and the agency of southerners including those in rural black communities to demonstrate the importance of schooling to political development in the South Along the way Malczewski challenges us to reevaluate the relationships among political actors involved in education reform Malczewski presents foundation leaders as self conscious state builders and policy entrepreneurs who aimed to promote national ideals through a public system of education efforts they believed were especially critical in the South Black education was an important component of this national agenda Through extensive efforts to create a more centralized and standard system of public education aimed at bringing isolated and rural black schools into the public system schools became important places for expanding the capacity of state and local governance Schooling provided opportunities to reorganize local communities and augment black agency in the process When foundations realized they could not unilaterally impose their educational vision on the South particularly in black communities they began to collaborate with locals thereby opening political opportunity in rural areas Unfortunately while foundations were effective at developing the institutional configurations necessary for education reform they were less successful at implementing local programs consistently due to each state s distinctive political and institutional context American Philanthropic Foundations David C. Hammack, Steven Rathgeb Smith, 2018-04-16 Essays examining the origins development and achievements of charitable organizations in key US cities and regions Once largely confined to the biggest cities in the mid Atlantic and Great Lakes states philanthropic foundations now play a significant role in nearly every state Wide ranging and incisive the essays in

Historically Black Colleges and Universities Charles L. Betsey, 2017-07-12 Beginning in the 1830s public and private higher education institutions established to serve African Americans operated in Pennsylvania and Ohio the Border States and the states of the old Confederacy Until recently the vast majority of people of African descent who received post secondary education in the United States did so in historically black institutions Spurred on by financial and accreditation issues litigation to assure compliance with court decisions equal higher education opportunity for all citizens and the role of race in admissions decisions interest in the role accomplishments and future of Historically Black Colleges and Universities has been renewed This volume touches upon these issues Historically Black Colleges and Universities HBCUs are a diverse group of 105 institutions They vary in size from several hundred students to over 10 000 Prior to Brown v Board of Education 90 percent of African American postsecondary students were enrolled in HBCUs Currently the 105 HBCUs account for 3 percent of the nation s educational institutions but they graduate about one quarter of African Americans receiving college degrees The competition that HBCUs currently face in attracting and educating African American and other students presents both challenges and opportunities Despite the fact that numerous studies have found that HBCUs are more effective at retaining and graduating African American students than predominately white colleges HBCUs have serious detractors Perhaps because of the increasing pressures on state governments to assure that public HBCUs receive comparable funding and provide programs that will attract a broader student population several public HBCUs no longer serve primarily African American students There is reason to believe and it is the opinion of several contributors to this book that in the changing higher education environment HBCUs will not survive particularly those that are
