

With the appearance of 'surreal' digital imagery on a daily basis in our culture, it is easy to forget the surrealist movement of the 1920s and 1930s. Photography, as the modern technology of the twentieth century, was central to the surrealists and this book is a fundamental and timely historical re-evaluation of the whole surrealist project and its uses of photography.

Sensitive to the internal dynamics of surrealism, David Bate examines the surrealist attitude to the visual across the surrealist project in chapters that offer critical readings of surrealist images from their publications and exhibitions elaborating, for example, on the surrealist flirt with Orientalism, fascination with de Sade, preoccupation with the hysteric, and engagement with colonial and anti-colonial politics, guided always by the surrealists' work across the triangle of terms sexuality, colonialism and social dissent.

Informed by notions of post-coloniality, by semiotics, psychoanalysis and photography theory, Photography and Surrealism re-reads key images in surrealism within their immediate historical context, mapping these readings across the progressive changes within surrealism itself and within the general framing dichotomy of photography and surrealism. The book is an original, clearly written critical re-evaluation of the use of photography in surrealism, which presents surrealism as a critical avant-garde project and returns surrealism to its proper historical and theoretical location.

David Bate is Course Leader in the MA in Photographic Studies and Senior Lecturer in Photography Theory, University of Westminster, London. His visual work has been shown widely in contemporary galleries and his writings published in such journals as Afterimage, Creative Camera and Third Text.

'This book is a welcome antidote to popular notions of Surrealism as apolitical 'shock art' or as phallicentric and sexually exploitative. Bate does a superlative job of showing how the Surrealists' desire to use photographs to expose what lived experience seeks to repress was mobilized as a radical weapon against the hidden violence of history.'

Photography And Surrealism Sexuality Colonialism And Social Dialect:

Colonialist Photography Eleanor M. Hight, Gary D. Sampson, 2013-06-17 Colonialist Photography is an absorbing collection of essays and photographs exploring the relationship between photography and European and American colonialism. The book is packed with well over a hundred captivating images ranging from the first experiments with photography as a documentary medium up to the decolonization of many regions after World War II. Reinforcing a broad range of Western assumptions and prejudices, Eleanor M. Hight and Gary D. Sampson argue that such images often assisted in the construction of a colonial culture. The Passionate Camera Deborah Bright, 1998 This book brings together over 50 artists, scholars, and critics to address a broad range of issues in photography and sexuality. Among the issues addressed by the contributors is the use and abuse of photographs in political campaigns and direct activism. We Were Here:

Sexuality, Photography, and Cultural Difference Sunil Gupta, 2022-09-20 We Were Here: Sexuality, Photography, and Cultural Difference Selected essays by Sunil Gupta. "Orientalism, Eroticism and Modern Visuality in Global Cultures" Julie Codell, 2017-07-05 In Orientalism, Eroticism and Modern Visuality in Global Cultures, scholars look afresh at representations of nineteenth-century oriental bodies, inquiring deeply into their erotic dimensions, tracing their global dissemination at cross-cultural intersections of the visual and the political. Authors consider the impact of eroticized orientalist representations registered on racial and gendered bodies at historical moments across the globe in the media of photography, painting, prints, and sculpture by contextualizing the visual within social practices, ethnography, literature, travel writing, and the dynamics of imperialism. Authors examine orientalism's politico-erotic import across not only imperial Britain and France but also throughout India and the Middle East, initiating cross-cultural analyses of orientalism outside of Europe. Works studied include Orientalist and homoerotic works by canonical artists such as Ingres, Géricault, Delacroix, and Girodet, and lesser-known artists such as sculptor Raffaele Monti and painter Elisabeth Jerichau Baumann. Contributors explore Turkish and European writings, explorer Richard Burton's self-fashioning, and popular Orientalist photography in India and the Middle East. Authors draw on methods from gender studies, semiotics, material culture, and psychoanalysis to explore art, national identity, homoerotic subcultures, female agency, class, sexuality, and colonialism. The book is directed to interdisciplinary scholars and students in art history, literature history, and postcolonial studies. Colonial Photography and Exhibitions

Anne Maxwell, 1999. 4e de couverture This book investigates the historical practice of producing stereotyped spectacles of colonized peoples at the great exhibitions and in colonial photography and relates it to the shaping of European and settler identities. In doing so, it singles out the homogeneous aspects of colonialism's culture as well as distinguishing its discontinuities. By comparing the images produced in Britain and France with those produced in North America, Australia, New Zealand, the Pacific, Japan, and China, it proposes that differences in representations of colonized peoples between the imperial centres and the colonies were the result of different social and political agendas. By focusing on the images connected to anthropology dying race theory travel tourism and portraiture Maxwell argues that while some photographs were directed at naturalizing the precept of colonialism others were used to criticize it and to empower indigenous subjects Written from a postcolonial perspective and pursuing an interdisciplinary approach this book will be of interest to scholars students and researchers intent on knowing more about the images of racial and cultural difference that shaped our immediate past

Bloodflowers W. Ian Bourland, 2019 In Bloodflowers W Ian Bourland examines the photography of Rotimi Fani Kayode 1955 1989 whose art is a touchstone for cultural debates surrounding questions of gender and queerness race and diaspora aesthetics and politics and the enduring legacy of slavery and colonialism Born in Nigeria Fani Kayode moved between artistic and cultural worlds in Washington DC New York and London where he produced the bulk of his provocative and often surrealist and homoerotic photographs of black men Bourland situates Fani Kayode's work in a time of global transition and traces how it exemplified and responded to profound social cultural and political change In addition to his formal analyses of Fani Kayode's portraiture Bourland outlines the important influence that surrealism neo Romanticism Yoruban religion the AIDS crisis experimental film loft culture and house and punk music had on Fani Kayode's work In so doing Bourland offers new perspectives on a pivotal artist whose brief career continues to resonate with deep aesthetic and social meaning

The Ballad of Sexual Dependency Nan Goldin, 1986 The Ballad of Sexual Dependency is a visual diary chronicling the struggle for intimacy and understanding between friends family and lovers __ collectively described by Goldin as her __ tribe __ Her work describes a world that is visceral charged and seething with life First published in 1986 this reissue recognizes the persistent relevance and freshness of Nan Goldin __s cutting edge photography Her lush color photography and candid style demand that the viewer go beyond the surface to encounter a profound intensity As Goldin writes __ Real memory which these pictures trigger is an invocation of the color smell sound and physical presence the density and flavor of life __ Through an accurate and detailed record of her life Ballard reveals Goldin __s personal odyssey as well as a more universal understanding of the different languages men and women speak and the struggle between autonomy and dependency Over the past twenty five years the influence of Ballard on photography and other aesthetic realms has continually grown making the work a contemporary classic Nan Goldin __s story of urban life on the fringe was the swan song of an era that reached its peak in the early eighties Yet it has captured an important element of humanity that is transcendent a need to connect This new edition of Ballard has been printed using new scans and separations created by master separator Robert Hennessey from Goldin __s original transparencies rendering them with unparalleled sumptuousness and impact

Sexual Portraits Michael A. Rosen, 1990-01-01 Pleasures Taken Carol Mavor, 1995 An intimate look into three Victorian photo settings Pleasures Taken considers questions of loss and sexuality as they are raised by some of the most compelling and often misrepresented photographs of the era Lewis Carroll s photographs of young girls Julia Margaret Cameron s photographs of Madonnas and the photographs of Hannah Cullwick a maid of all work who had herself pictured in a range of masquerades from a blackened chimney sweep to a bare chested Magdalene Reading these settings performatively Carol Mavor shifts the focus toward the subjectivity of these girls and women and toward herself as a writer Mavor s original approach to these photographs emphatically sees sexuality where it has been previously rendered invisible She insists that the sexuality of the girls in Carroll s pictures is not only present but deserves recognition respect and scrutiny Similarly she sees in Cameron s photographs of sensual Madonnas surprising visions of motherhood that outstrip both Victorian and contemporary understandings of the maternal as untouchable and inviolate without sexuality Finally she shows how Hannah Cullwick posing in various masquerades for her secret paramour emerges as a subject with desires rather than simply a victim of her upper class partner Even when confronting the darker areas of these photographs Mavor perseveres in her insistence on the pleasures taken by the viewer the photographer and often by the model herself in the act of imagining these sexualities Inspired by Roland Barthes and drawing on other theorists such as Julia Kristeva and Luce Irigaray Mavor creates a text that is at once interdisciplinary personal and profoundly pleasurable

Intimacy, Photography, Shame Harrison Adams, 2024-11-29 This study argues that intimacy requires an overcoming of shame and each of these artists in their own way uses photography to frame moments that can be shameful to some and intimate others leaving it to the viewer to navigate this affectively perilous terrain From the cancellation of Mapplethorpe s retrospective The Perfect Moment to the obscenity trial in Cincinnati shortly thereafter to Hujar s lesser known but equally hardcore imagery to Goldin s gritty depictions of domestic violence and substance abuse to the accusations of child pornography thrown at Mann s photographs of her own children the photographers at the heart of this book have probed the limits of acceptability But there is more to their work than merely controversy it s what causes the controversy that matters The notion of intimacy is at stake in some of our most important human relationships and thus a great deal hinges on both achieving and preserving intimacy This book will be of interest to scholars working in art history photography and gender studies
