The Roman World John Wachter, 2013-10-14 When originally published in 1987 this book was hailed as a landmark in the study of the Roman World Now back in print with a new preface by the author it is still the most comprehensive survey of the Roman World available Ranging from the founding of Rome in the eighth century BC and throughout the Empire and beyond this book will continue to be an essential resource on the subject for many years to come      Roman Italy Timothy W. Potter, 1987 This is the first general survey of Roman Italy that brings together the wealth of evidence available from literary sources inscriptions and the exciting recent discoveries in Roman archaeology Potter s account is one of the few to cover the whole period of Roman Italy      Architectures of the Roman World Niccolò Mugnai, 2023-12-07 This book collects essays by international scholars who engage with Roman period architecture outside Rome and the Italian Peninsula looking at the regions that formed part of the Roman Empire over a broad time frame from the second century BCE to the third century CE Moving beyond traditional views of Roman provincial architecture the aim is to highlight the multi faceted features of these architectures their function impact and significance within the local cultures and the dynamic discourse between periphery and center Architecture is intended in the broad sense of the term encompassing the buildings technological components as well as their ornamental and epigraphic apparatuses The geographic framework under examination is a broad one along with well documented areas of the ancient Mediterranean attention is also paid to the territories of north west Europe The discussion throughout the volume focuses on three interrelated themes models agency and reception The broader scope of these essays is to give a reinvigorated impetus to the scholarly debate on the role and influence of ancient architectures beyond the center of Empire The book has a strong interdisciplinary character which reflects the authors diverse expertise in the fields of archaeology architecture ancient history art and architectural history      Papers of the British School at Rome British School at Rome, 2000      Blockbusters and the Ancient World Chris Davies, 2019-03-21 Following the release of Ridley

Scott's Gladiator in 2000 the ancient world epic has experienced a revival in studio and audience interest Building on existing scholarship on the Cold War epics of the 1950s 60s including Ben Hur Spartacus and The Robe this original study explores the current cycle of ancient world epics in cinema within the social and political climate created by September 11th 2001 Examining films produced against the backdrop of the War on Terror and subsequent invasions of Iraq and Afghanistan this book assesses the relationship between mainstream cinema and American society through depictions of the ancient world conflict and faith Davies explores how these films evoke depictions of the Second World War the Vietnam War and the Western in portraying warfare in the ancient world as well as discussing the influence of genre hybridisation narration and reception theory He questions the extent to which ancient world epics utilise allegory analogy and allusion to parallel past and present in an industry often dictated by market forces Featuring analysis of Alexander Troy 300 Centurion The Eagle The Passion of the Christ and more this book offers new insight on the continued evolution of the ancient world epic in cinema

The Romans: All That Matters John Manley, 2013-08-30 In The Romans All That Matters John Manley focuses on some of the fundamental aspects of the Roman Empire especially those topics that have relevance beyond the study of Antiquity itself how its material remains and philosophical concepts have survived and still influence us today How did a rather obscure settlement spread over a few hills on the banks of the Tiber come to dominate the lives of 65 million people What drove this relentless desire to conquer How did Rome manage to maintain direct rule over such a vast area from present day Scotland to Syria approximately 6 million square kilometres The answer in part is that there were many different kinds of Roman culture as each separate provincial elite each region and each group of indigenous community leaders chose slightly different elements of the Roman colonial package to establish their particular identity This accessible and readable book will appeal both to students and general readers giving a fascinating introduction to the Romans and what mattered most about them

TRAC 2014 Tom Brindle, Martyn Allen, Emma Durham, Alex Smith, 2015-04-02 This volume contains a selection of papers presented at TRAC 2014 as well as some invited contributions In keeping with the aims of TRAC several papers make innovative use of interdisciplinary theory in humanistic geography philosophy and archaeology social psychology and the cognitive science of religion in the study of Roman monuments military social history and religion Other papers share a common theme the critical interpretation of archaeological evidence A more careful consideration of non grave good pottery sherds from graves suggests that these often disregarded items potentially shed light on funerary rites which are usually considered to be invisible the potential importance of plant remains particularly of exotic and rare species in ritual deposits is examined and a new perspective on the negative aspects of Roman conquest of Northern Gaul presented New approaches towards our understanding of space and landscape in the Roman world comprise an examination of the suburbs of ancient Rome and preliminary results of an ongoing project exploring the relationship between wetland landscapes and domestic settlements presenting a case study from Spain

Geography Is Destiny Ian Morris, 2022-06-07 In the wake of Brexit Ian

Morris chronicles the ten thousand year history of Britain's relationship to Europe as it has changed in the context of a globalizing world. When Britain voted to leave the European Union in 2016, the 48 percent who wanted to stay and the 52 percent who wanted to go each accused the other of stupidity, fraud, and treason. In reality, the Brexit debate merely reran a script written ten thousand years earlier when the rising seas physically separated the British Isles from the European continent. Ever since, geography has been destiny, yet it is humans who get to decide what that destiny means. Ian Morris, the critically acclaimed author of Why the West Rules for Now, describes how technology and organization have steadily enlarged Britain's arena and how its people have tried to turn this to their advantage. For the first seventy-five hundred years, the British were never more than bit players at the western edge of a European stage, struggling to find a role among bigger, richer, and more sophisticated continental rivals. By 1500 CE, however, new kinds of ships and governments had turned the European stage into an Atlantic one, with the English Channel now functioning as a barrier. England transformed the British Isles into a United Kingdom that created a worldwide empire. Since 1900, thanks to rapid globalization, Britain has been overshadowed by American, European, and increasingly Chinese actors. In trying to find its place in a global economy, Britain has been looking in all the wrong places. The ten thousand year story, bracingly chronicled by Geography Is Destiny, shows that the great question for the current century is not what to do about Brussels; it's what to do about Beijing.

Burial and Memorial in Late Antiquity, 2024-10-02. Burial and Memorial explores funerary and commemorative archaeology A.D. 284-650 across the late antique world. This second volume includes papers exploring all aspects of funerary archaeology from scientific samples in graves to grave goods and tomb robbing and a bibliographic essay. It brings into focus neglected regions not usually considered by funerary archaeologists in NW Europe, such as the Levant, where burial archaeology is rich in grave goods, to Sicily and Sardinia, where post-mortem offerings and burial manipulations are well attested. We also hear from excavations in Britain from Canterbury and London and see astonishing fruits from the application of science to graves recently excavated in Trier.

Ancient Rome Jane Bingham, 2005-12-30. Explores the evidence uncovered by archaeologists and takes readers on a journey to discover the rich world of ancient Rome.

Beyond the Romans Irene Selsvold, Lewis Webb, 2020-04-09. This latest volume in the TRAC Themes in Theoretical Roman Archaeology series takes up posthuman theoretical perspectives to interpret Roman material culture. These perspectives provide novel and compelling ways of grappling with theoretical problems in Roman archaeology, producing new knowledge and questions about the complex relationships and interactions between humans and non-humans in Roman culture and society. Posthumanism constitutes a multitude of theoretical positions characterised by common critiques of anthropocentrism and human exceptionalism. In part, they react to the dominance of the linguistic turn in humanistic sciences. These positions do not exclude the human but instead stress the mutual relationship between matter and discourse. Moreover, they consider the agency of non-humans, e.g. animals, material culture, landscapes, climate, and ideas, their entanglement with humans, and the situated nature of research.

Posthumanism has had substantial impacts in several fields including critical studies archaeology feminist studies even politics but have not yet emerged in any fulsome way in Classical Studies and Classical Archaeology This is the first volume on these themes in Roman Archaeology aimed at providing valuable perspectives into Roman myth art and material culture displacing and complicating notions of human exceptionalism and individualist subjectivity Contributions consider non human agencies particularly animal material environmental and divine agencies critiques of binary oppositions and gender roles and the Anthropocene Ultimately the papers stress that humans and non humans are entangled and imbricated in larger systems we are all post human
