issues based on archaeological information from 12 000 burials and 28 000 objects of the period AD 450 650 The nature distribution and spatial relationships of settlement and burial evidence are examined over time against a background of the productive capabilities of the environment in which they are set the availability of raw materials evidence for metalworking and other industrial craft activities and communication and trade routes This has enabled the identification of central areas of wealth that influenced places around them Key within this period was the influence of the Franks who may have driven economic exploitation by building on the pre existing Roman infrastructure of the south east Frankish material culture was as widespread as that of the Kentish people whose wealth is evident in many well furnished graves but more nuanced approaches to wealth distribution are apparent further to the West perhaps due to ongoing interaction with communities who maintained an essentially Romano British way of life Fourplay ,1841
