

The book cover features a dark, atmospheric illustration of a subway train at a station platform. The train is illuminated by a bright yellow light source, possibly a tunnel light, which creates a strong perspective and casts long shadows. The platform is dark and textured, with a red line visible on the ground. The overall mood is gritty and noir.

He also wrote several teleplays and screenplays including Alfred Hitchcock's The Birds and the 1954 novel The Blackboard Jungle. When the Mystery Writers of America named Hunter a Grand Master, he gave the designation to his alter ego Ed McBain, best known for his long running police procedural series about the detectives of the 87th Precinct. This comprehensive companion provides detailed information about all of Evan Hunter's Ed McBain's works, characters, and recurring themes. By necessity or artistic license or possibly just ego, changes are often made by the filmmakers, many of them ineffective or even detrimental. This book focuses on the screen adaptations of 65 famous mysteries and examines how the filmmakers either succeeded or failed in the telling of the story. Interviews with several famous mystery writers are included with their comments on how filmmakers treated their work.      Books to Die For John Connolly, Declan Burke, 2016-10-25 An anthology featuring the world's greatest mystery authors writing about the world's greatest mystery novels.      Pioneers in Popular Culture Studies Ray Broadus Browne, Michael T. Maxwell, 2004-05-24 For application of the most current Anglo American Cataloguing Rules, there is but one standard: Maxwell's Handbook for AACR2. This practical and authoritative cataloging how-to, now in its Fourth Edition, has been completely revised inclusive of the 2003 update to AACR2. Designed to interpret and explain AACR2, Maxwell illustrates and applies the latest cataloging rules to the MARC record for every type of information format. Focusing on the concept of integrating resources where relevant information may be available in different formats, the revised edition also addresses the Program for Cooperative Cataloging (PCC) and the cataloging needs of electronic books and digital reproductions of physical items such as books and maps. From books and pamphlets to sound recordings, music manuscripts, maps, and more, this is the most comprehensive and straightforward guide to interpreting and applying standard cataloging rules. Learn how and when to apply the rules. What has changed in MARC21 coding? How the rules help organize descriptive and bibliographic information. What are uniform titles for unusual formats or materials? How to select access points. Extensive updates have resulted in all new chapters covering cartographic materials.
