Row Row Little Red Boat Chinese:

Reveal Meggan Watterson, 2013-04-03 The Wall Street Journal bestselling author of Mary Magdalene Revealed Even as a little girl Harvard trained theologian Meggan Watterson knew something was missing from traditional religion the voices of women She knew these voices had never been silenced just buried so she began a pilgrimage to uncover the presence of the Divine Feminine What she discovered along the way were not only the many stories images and voices of the Divine Feminine in world religions Christianity's Mary Magdalene Hinduism's Kali Ma Buddhism's Green Tara but also her own spiritual voice the one veiled beneath years of fear and self doubt After a revelation at a sacred site of the Black Madonna in Europe Meggan realized that being spiritual for her was intricately tied to her view of her body Rather than transcending the body denying or ignoring it she found that she must accept her body as sacred Only then could she truly hear the voice of unfaltering love inside her the voice of her soul Watterson soon found that she was not alone that there are countless women who long for a spirituality that encourages embodiment that inspires them to abandon their fears but never themselves and that shows them how to be led by the audacious and fiercely loving voice of truth inside them No matter where you rest on the spectrum of spirituality religious or secular devout believer or chronic doubter freelance mystic or borderline agnostic this story is about the desire to shed what's holding you back With passion humor poetry and raw honesty Meggan provides what religion has left out a way to lift the veils of your own fear and self doubt to reveal your soul and find the Divine within

Tradition, Culture and Aesthetics in Contemporary Asian Cinema Peter C. Pugsley, 2016-02-24 From the critically acclaimed Malaysian film Sepet to the on going box office successes of the films created by Hong Kong director Wong Kar Wai cinematic texts from the nations of Asia are increasingly capturing audiences beyond their national boundaries Tradition Culture and Aesthetics in Contemporary Asian Cinema explores the rise of popular Asian cinema and provides an understanding of the aesthetic elements that mark these films as Asian cinema Incorporating examples of contemporary films from China Japan Hong Kong Korea Singapore Malaysia and India Peter C Pugsley gives readers a fresh insight into the rapidly developing discourse on popular Asian media The book's chapters focus on the aesthetic features of national cinemas and the intersections of local global encountered in the production distribution and consumption of contemporary Asian films By tracking across some of the most influential countries in Asia the book is able to offer new perspectives into the visual and aural features that create greater understanding between East and West As distribution and technological advances make Asian films more readily available an understanding of the different aesthetics at play will enable readers of this book to recognise key cultural motifs found in cinematic texts from Asia recent years the descriptive term Indo Pacific has entered the geo strategic lexicon as a substitute for the more established expression Asia Pacific Defined as an integrated strategic system that best captures the shift in power and influence from the West to the East the concept has dominated strategic debates and discussions gaining rapidly in currency and acceptance Popular though the term has become its strategic context and underlying logic are still sharply contested While proponents of the Indo Pacific advance compelling arguments in its favour the debate over whether it is a valid construct is not quite settled Consequently it is yet to gain full acceptance among regional analysts and policy makers who appear unsure about embracing the idea without any qualifying caveats Even so the Indo Pacific has emerged as a significant strategic space and a theatre of great power competition From a maritime security perspective its importance as a geo economic hub is accentuated by the growing presence of non traditional threats Piracy terrorism gun running illegal fishing trafficking global warming and natural disasters represent challenges to maritime security that are inherently transnational in nature where dynamics in one part of the system influence events in another necessitating coordinated security operations by maritime forces and strategic relationships between stakeholder states Papers put together in this book seek to appraise the Indo Pacific by examining the concept holistically deciphering the trends that impact maritime security in the region and identifying its emerging patterns Apart from examining the inherent logic underpinning the concept these provide perspectives on security in the Indo Pacific region evaluate the strategic implications of competition conflict and instability in the region and bring out the operational implications of using a frame of reference that combines two contiguous albeit disparate maritime theatres
