Scientific Literacy And Environmental Policy The Missing Prerequisite For Sound Decision Making:

Scientific Literacy and Environmental Policy Dorothy J. Howell, 1992-04-06 National institutions involved in environmental policy planning respond more to the accommodation of special interests whether vested parochial or societal than to the realities of technological advances This situation combined with the added problem of widespread scientific illiteracy makes the formulation of effective environmental policy a very difficult task to accomplish Our politico legal system and relationships among science scientists and society are explored here with specific attention to issues arising from pharmaceutical innovation and biotechnology The identification of the resultant dilemmas reveal disenfranchisement and point to possible means of reform Howell focuses on the need for multilateral responsibility for communication to improve the accommodation of science in policy A truly multidisciplinary study this book is for environmental planners as well as the interested public

Trade-Off Analysis for Environmental Projects: An Annotated Bibliography ,

Environmental Politics Norman Miller, 2017-12-19 At every stage environmental policy is the result of the combat of stakeholders interested in and affected by the problem being addressed and the range of possible solutions The combatants include any or all of the following the federal government environmental advocacy groups and business the media the scientific community think tanks NGOs of every stripe trade associations and professional organizations and even state and local governments each of whom have their own interests in the resulting policy Environmental Politics Interest Groups the Media and the Making of Policy discusses political battles over the environment from ground level as they are fought in legislative chambers the daily newspaper on television and increasingly on the Internet The text explores environmental politics as a clash of interests not ideologies and environmental policy as a result of the reconciliation of those interests The author covers not only the conventional aspects of the policymaking process but more recent and less recognized elements and developments such as Proliferation of legislative riders and monument designations as major environmental strategies Evolving role of the media from science popularizer to agenda setter Growing influence on both Congress and the public of conservative and libertarian foundations and think tanks Devolution of environmental power from the Federal to state governments Metamorphosis of EPA in a business driven regulatory revolution Effect of globalization on US environmental policy Newly emerging role of the precautionary principle in marrying science and politics Increasing role of the Internet in promoting populist issues and promoting the decentralization of the environmental power structure No other book covers the politics of the environment the way this one does Written by an expert with 25 years of experience in environmental policymaking Environmental Politics Interest Groups the Media and the Making of Policy gives you an insider's view of how policies are forged By examining these issues through an interest group lens this book not only accounts for what policies have been adopted but also shows how you can influence policy and effect change Forum for Applied Research and Public Policy, 1993

Environmental Studies Reviews, 1995 Ecology for Environmental Professionals Dorothy J. Howell, 1994 If as has been asserted everything in nature is connected to everything else it is a lesson yet to be reflected among environmental professions especially those serving law and policy Nowhere is the lack of integration more apparent than in the incorporation of sound ecological principles Yet comprehension of these principles is a prerequisite to establishing effective environmental programs whether local or global Ecology and environmental sciences range from cosmology to determining toxic effects in a biological system In short ecology is served by and is itself a manifestation of all the natural sciences Ecology is further manifested in the social sciences directly and indirectly In this book ecology and environmental sciences are presented to environmental professionals in terms relevant to all their endeavors Today s ecologies emerge from the venerable scientific endeavor Upon placing ecology in the hierarchy of natural sciences this volume centers on the wealth of dimensions in which ecology is expressed Extending beyond the three spatial dimensions and that of time ecology enters those of holistic and reductionist vantages the last reflected in abiotic and biotic detail Dimensions serving environmental professions include the experimental those arising from interrelationships with adaptation and evolution and that of human ecology Finally there is the intellectual dimension Ecology as one thread in the contemporary cultural tapestry into which environmental policy and law are being woven Scrupulously avoiding superimposition of political stance this unique volume serves anyone lacking scientific preparation who would take a stance professional or personal
