An Investigation of Low Temperature Internal Friction in Metals Hollis Leland Caswell, 1957 Official Gazette of the United States Patent Office United States. Patent Office, 1971

Low-Dimensional Systems Tobias Brandes, 2008-01-11

Experimental progress over the past few years has made it possible to test a number of fundamental physical concepts related to the motion of electrons in low dimensions The production and experimental control of novel structures with typical sizes in the sub micrometer regime has now become possible In particular semiconductors are widely used in order to confine the motion of electrons in two dimensional heterostructures The quantum Hall effect was one of the first highlights of the new physics that is revealed by this confinement In a further step of the technological development in semiconductor heterostructures other artificial devices such as quasi one dimensional quantum wires and quantum dots artificial atoms have also been produced These structures again differ very markedly from three and two dimensional systems especially in relation to the transport of electrons and the interaction with light Although the technological advances and the experimental skills connected with these new structures are progressing extremely fast our theoretical understanding of the physical effects such as the quantum Hall effect is still at a very rudimentary level In low dimensional structures the interaction of electrons with one another and with other degrees of freedom such as lattice vibrations or light gives rise to new phenomena that are very different from those familiar in the bulk material. The theoretical formulation of the electronic transport properties of small devices may be considered well established provided interaction processes are neglected. Arcana Coelestia Emanuel Swedenborg, 1928. Incunabula Printed in the Low Countries Gerard van Thienen, John Goldfinch, 2024-04-15. Incunabula of the Low Countries ILC is a census of fifteenth century books printed in the area of the present day Netherlands and Belgium. It lists 2 229 editions in more than 14 300 copies preserved in hundreds of libraries, museums and archives all over the world but mainly in Europe and the USA. The entries for this census have been derived from the Incunabula Short Title Catalogue (ISTC), the database of incunabula compiled at the British Library. They combine research on Low Countries incunabula carried out by Gerard van Thienen, curator at the Koninklijke Bibliotheek in The Hague, with data assembled by ISTC from other sources. ISTC entries were further edited, indexed and prepared for publication by John Goldfinch at the British Library. Campbell's Annales of 1874, the first bibliography of incunabula printed in the Low Countries, with 1794 entries, was followed by a number of supplements of increasing complexity, the most extensive being published by M. E. Kronenberg in 1956. All the former additions and emendations together with additions not otherwise listed before are now brought together and included in one sequence in ILC. Teaching Primary Science Constructively Keith Skamp, Christine Preston, 2017-09-05. Teaching Primary Science Constructively helps readers to create effective science learning experiences for primary students by using a constructivist approach to learning. This best selling text explains the principles of constructivism and their implications for learning and teaching and discusses core strategies for developing science understanding and science inquiry processes and skills. Chapters also provide research based ideas for implementing a constructivist approach within a number of content strands. Throughout there are strong links to the key ideas, themes and terminology of the revised Australian Curriculum Science. This sixth edition includes a new introductory chapter addressing readers' preconceptions and concerns about teaching primary science. The Jesuits of the Low Countries Rob Faesen, Leo Kenis, 2012. From 3 until 5 December 2009 an international colloquium was organised at the Faculty of Theology and Religious Studies, KU Leuven, which intended to highlight and discuss the impact of the Society of Jesus on the development of cultural, scientific and political life in the Low Countries. The colloquium not only aimed to bring together specialists in the various fields of Jesuitica research but also organised a meeting between the people committed to scientific research and those who disclose archives and other information sources enabling new research. Some of the finest scholars in Jesuit studies presented the results of their research in a number of lectures. The current volume contains a selection of these lectures dealing with a broad spectrum of subjects from Jesuit spirituality to the Jesuit contribution to the science of law, political thought and the visual arts to education, mathematics and architecture. Attention is paid to the role of the Jesuits in the development of the printing press, their relation with Louvain's Faculty of Theology and their position in the Jansenist controversies as well as to their expansion abroad in the Missio Hollandica in South Wales and in the mission to China. Furthermore, the book includes a number of presentations from the workshops specifically concerning archives and databases related to the history of the Jesuits in the Low Countries
