Marino Marini is undoubtedly one of the most outstanding figures on the scene of European sculpture in our century. His production ranging from the early Thirties to the end of the Seventies is characterised by great expressive intensity resulting from a powerful plastic synthesis of material form and space. His artistic approach that uses just a few themes to express the entire world of his connections and considerations about man and life has a density of meaning and an evocative capacity that make his work extremely modern. After the introduction by Rosa Maria Letts, director of the European Academy in London, the book contains two essays by Erich Steingrober and Mario De Micheli, followed by a text by Luigi Cavadini on the years the Tuscan artist spent in Switzerland, the catalogue of the works and an exhaustive biographical notice edited by Laura Lorenzoni. Over a hundred and twenty sculptures, paintings and drawings document the span of Marini's thought and artistic evolution from his beginnings to his full maturity through some of his greatest masterpieces.

Visual Passions examines how the sculpture of Marino Marini was influenced by those major episodes in Italian and international art to which he was drawn. The post World War II period saw his fame spread abroad and his works enter major international museums and foreign private collections. The purpose of this exhibition catalogue is to establish the visual links that connect Marini's sculpture to the work of major sculptors of the late nineteenth and twentieth centuries: Rodin, Maillol, Despiau, Lehmbruck, Picasso, Moore. Despite a long exhibition history and a vast bibliography, Marini has never adequately been studied in terms of the historical and stylistic context of his production. This book sets out to rectify this omission which alone can establish Marini's proper place in the history of twentieth century Modernism.
