Re-Forming the Liturgy Paul Galbreath, 2019-04-18 Christian worship is always undergoing change as it adapts to particular contexts and concerns This collection of essays explores ways 1 that liturgical change happened to address particular historical and theological concerns 2 that worship and preaching are currently undergoing transition and 3 that aspects of worship are in need of transformation in order to address primary issues of our time with a focus on environmental and ecological concerns Spacial attention is paid to the role of the Sacraments and to preaching with an emphasis on the need to connect worship with daily life These essays show readers ways that liturgical renewal worked in the past as well as offer a persuasive case for continual renewal that responds to key issues in our contemporary lives

Passover and Easter Paul F. Bradshaw, Lawrence A. Hoffman, 2000-02-15 Passover and Easter constitute for Jews and Christians respectively the most important festivals of the year. Although sharing a common root, the feasts have developed in quite distinct ways in the two traditions, in part independently of one another and in part in reaction against the other. Following the pattern set in earlier volumes in this series, these two volumes bring together a group of distinguished Jewish and Christian scholars to explore the history of the two celebrations, paying particular attention to similarities and connections between them as well as to differences and contrasts. They not only present a convenient summary of current historical thought but also open up new perspectives on the evolution of these annual observances. Volume 5 in the series focuses especially on the origins and early development of the feasts and on the way that established practices have changed in recent years. Volume 6 also in the series focuses on the contexts in which they occur, the periods of preparation for the feasts in the respective calendars, and their connection to Shavuot/Pentecost as well as to their traditional expression in art and music. At the same time, the essays raise some fundamental questions about the future: Have modern human beings so lost the sense of sacred time in their lives that these great feasts can never again be what they once were for former generations of believers? And what about recent attempts by some Christians to enter into their heritage by celebrating a Jewish Seder as part of their annual Holy Week and Easter services? Specialists and general readers alike will find much to interest and challenge them within these two additions to what has become a highly regarded series in the world of liturgical scholarship.

Handbook for Liturgical Studies, Volume V Anscar J. Chupungco, 2016-03-24 The final volume in the Handbook for Liturgical Studies series, Volume V, Liturgical Time and Space, contains the concluding material for an integral study of the liturgy. It opens with a preliminary notion of time and space before discussing in detail three types of liturgical celebrations on which time and space have a direct and particular bearing.

The first of these is the Liturgy of the Hours This topic is developed in the light of the early Christian tradition until the fourth century and its subsequent forms in both East and West The second is the Liturgical Year traditionally called the anni circulas The development of the Liturgical Year during the first four centuries is reviewed This is followed by a detailed study of the Byzantine Roman and non Roman Western tradition It concludes with the theology and spirituality of the Liturgical Year wherein the mystery of Christ as a saving event is made present in time so that the faithful may lay hold of it through the Word and the sacraments The theology of liturgical space is drawn from the mutual interaction between the assembled community which gives meaning to the place of assembly and the place itself which upholds and signifies community

Faith Shaping Ministry Paul E. Hoffman, 2013-09-16 What happens after a congregation welcomes new Christians into its ministry Building on the work of the first volume in this series Faith Forming Faith Paul Hoffman interprets how a congregation that intentionally practices baptism and its renewal is itself re formed Pastors teachers lay leaders students of ministry and people in the pew all will find the compelling story of the ministry of Phinney Ridge Lutheran Church in Seattle Washington one of our nation's most secular cities to be an inspiring and practical primer for renewal Who would have thought Bringing others to the waters of baptism transforms those already at home in the congregation In fact this intentional spiritual practice completely transforms the parish and the lives of God's people There are new discoveries to be made in the ancient treasures of the Church as these gifts are shared with those hungering and thirsting for a place at God's table

Liturgical Time and Space Anscar J. Chupungco, 2000 The final volume in the Handbook for Liturgical Studies series Volume V Liturgical Time and Space contains the concluding material for an integral study of the liturgy It opens with a preliminary notion of time and space before discussing in detail three types of liturgical celebrations on which time and space

The second is the Liturgical Year, traditionally called the anni circulas. The development of the Liturgical Year during the first four centuries is reviewed. This is followed by a detailed study of the Byzantine, Roman and non-Roman Western tradition. It concludes with the theology and spirituality of the Liturgical Year wherein the mystery of Christ as a saving event is made present in time so that the faithful may lay hold of it through the Word and the sacraments. The theology of liturgical space is drawn from the mutual interaction between the assembled community which gives meaning to the place of assembly and the place itself which upholds and signifies community.

Aspects of the Liturgical Year in Cappadocia (325-430) Jill Burnett Comings, 2005. The fourth century was pivotal in the evolution of the feasts and fasts of late antique Christian communities. While earlier scholars have focused on developments in Jerusalem, Rome and the Gallican West, the liturgical year in Cappadocia remains largely uncharted territory. Aspects of the Liturgical Year in Cappadocia 325 to 430 fills that gap, relying primarily on the liturgical year homilies of the Cappadocian Fathers in order to provide for the first time a comprehensive study of liturgical calendars from Cappadocia and environs during the period between the Councils of Nicaea and Ephesus. This volume is a valuable resource for students of liturgical time, the Cappadocians and fourth-century doctrinal controversies.
