Murungi, 2002-01-01 The study of landscape and place has become an increasingly fertile realm of inquiry in the humanities and social sciences. In this new book of essays selected from presentations at the first annual meeting of the Society for Philosophy and Geography, scholars investigate the experiences and meanings that inscribe urban and suburban landscapes. Gary Backhaus and John Murungi bring philosophy and geography into a dialogue with a host of other disciplines to explore a fundamental dialectic while our collective and personal activity modifies the landscape in turn the landscape modifies human identities and social and environmental relations. Whether proposing a peripatetic politics, conducting a sociological analysis of building security systems, or critically examining the formation of New York City's municipal parks, each essay sheds distinctive light on this fascinating and engaging aspect of contemporary environmental studies. Stoker's Bay Peter

Roaming the earth were spectacular beasts such as saber-toothed cats, giant mastodons, immense ground sloths, and gigantic giraffe-like rhinoceroses. Here is the ultimate illustrated field guide to the lost world of these weird and wonderful prehistoric creatures. It covers all the main groups of fossil mammals, discussing taxonomy and evolutionary history and providing concise accounts of the better known genera and species as well as an up-to-date family tree for each group. No other book presents such a wealth of new information about these animals: what they looked like, how they behaved, and how they were interrelated. In addition, this unique guide is stunningly illustrated throughout with full-color reconstructions of these beasts, many never before depicted, along with photographs of amazing fossils from around the world. Provides an up-to-date guidebook to hundreds of extinct species, from saber-toothed cats to giant mammoths. Features a wealth of color illustrations, including new reconstructions of
