N. Sangmpam,2012-02-01 Two competing approaches currently dominate the debate about the state and institutions in developing countries The first projects a picture of transnational vertical uniformity descending from the West to developing countries and views liberal democracy as the only game in town In this view the state and institutions resemble or ought to resemble those in the West The second by contrast explains political outcomes by local idiosyncrasies and regional variations in institutions In his original approach to third world politics S N Sangmpam challenges both views by uncovering important similarities in the political features of developing countries He shows that they share political behaviors and features unaccounted for in either local idiosyncratic or liberal democratic theories These behaviors converge toward a common property overpoliticization that defies political compromise leading to an overpoliticized state Sangmpam provides a wealth of empirical historical and quantitative evidence from Latin America Asia Africa and the West and demonstrates the overpoliticized state constitutes the cornerstone of an integrated theory of politics in developing countries
