

The illustration on the book cover depicts a Roman military camp or fort in a hilly, wooded landscape. In the foreground, a stone wall with crenellations runs across the bottom left. Two Roman soldiers in traditional tunics and helmets stand on the wall, looking towards the interior. To the right of the wall, a horse-drawn chariot is visible. In the middle ground, a dirt road leads into the camp, where a group of soldiers is marching. A small wooden building, possibly a granary or workshop, stands near the road. The background features rolling hills and distant mountains under a pale sky. The overall style is that of a classic historical painting.

Aileen Aileen Fox,2000 Aileen Fox a pioneer of archaeology at Exeter University was one of the first women to hold a senior post at a British university and was a committed supporter of local archaeology throughout a career that spanned six decades This highly personal and engaging memoir records her life and work in great detail from her birth in affluent Kensington in 1907 through a career alongside Mortimer Wheeler and other luminaries with prehistoric excavations in south Wales and southern England to her productive decade in New Zealand

Life-writing in the History of Archaeology Gabriel Moshenska,Clare Lewis,2023-07-10 Life writing is a vital part of the history of archaeology and a growing field of scholarship within the discipline The lives of archaeologists are entangled with histories of museums and collections developments in science and scholarship and narratives of nationalism and colonialism into the present In recent years life writing has played an important role in the surge of new research in the history of archaeology including ground breaking studies of discipline formation institutionalisation and social and intellectual networks Sources such as diaries wills film and the growing body of digital records are powerful tools for highlighting the contributions of hitherto marginalised archaeological lives including many pioneering women hired labourers and other hidden hands This book brings together critical perspectives on life writing in the history of archaeology from leading figures in the field These include studies of archive formation and use the concept of dig writing as a distinctive genre of archaeological creativity and reviews of new sources for already well known lives Several chapters reflect on the experience of life writing review the historiography of the field and assess the intellectual value and significance of life writing as a genre Together they work to problematise underlying assumptions about this genre foregrounding methodology social theory ethics and other practice focused frameworks in conscious tension with previous practices

Houses, Villas, and Palaces in the Roman World Alexander G. McKay, 1998-05-29 In a fascinating study of ancient Roman architecture classics scholar Alexander McKay examines simple houses mansions estates and palatial buildings interior furnishings and gardens revealing that Roman civilization was astonishingly similar to our own He also discusses the conditions of life in the Roman provinces 153 illustrations

Archaeology's Visual Culture Roger Balm, 2015-12-14 Archaeology's Visual Culture explores archaeology through the lens of visual culture theory The insistent visuality of archaeology is a key stimulus for the imaginative and creative interpretation of our encounters with the past Balm investigates the nature of this projection of the visual revealing an embedded subjectivity in the imagery of archaeology and acknowledging the multiplicity of meanings that cohere around artifacts archaeological sites and museum displays Using a wide range of case studies the book highlights how archaeologists can view objects and the consequences that ensue from these ways of seeing Throughout the book Balm considers the potential for documentary images and visual material held in archives to perform cultural work within and between groups of specialists With primary sources ranging from the mid nineteenth to the early twenty first century this volume also maps the intellectual and social connections between archaeologists and their peers Geographical settings include Britain Cyprus Mesoamerica the Middle East and the United States and the sites of visual encounter are no less diverse ranging from excavation reports in salvage archaeology to instrumentally derived data sets and remote sensing imagery By forensically examining selected visual records from published accounts and archival sources enduring tropes of representation become apparent that transcend issues of style and reflect fundamental visual sensibilities within the discipline of archaeology

Wroxeter: Ashes under Uricon Roger H. White, 2022-09-22 This book reflects on how people over time have viewed the abandoned Roman city of Wroxeter in Shropshire It responds to three main artistic outputs poetry images and texts It explores what locals and visitors thought of the site over time and considers how access to the site has altered impacting on who visits and what is understood

Spectacle and Display: A Modern History of Britain's Roman Mosaic Pavements Michael Dawson, 2021-05-20 Antiquarian interest in the Roman period mosaics of Britain began in the 16th century This book is the first to explore responses and attitudes to mosaics not just at the point of discovery but during their subsequent history It is a field which has received scant attention and provides a compelling insight into the agency of these remains
