Trade, Commerce, and the State in the Roman World Andrew Wilson, Alan K. Bowman, 2018 In this volume papers by leading Roman historians and archaeologists discuss trade within the Roman Empire and beyond its frontiers between c 100 BC and AD 350 focusing especially on the role of the Roman state in shaping the institutional framework for trade As part of a novel interdisciplinary approach to the subject the chapters address its myriad facets on the basis of broadly different sources of evidence historical papyrological and archaeological demonstrating how collaborations with the elite holders of wealth within the empire fundamentally changed its political character in the longer term The Oxford

Handbook of Roman Britain Martin Millett, Louise Revell, Alison Jane Moore, 2016 This handbook is currently in development with individual articles publishing online in advance of print publication At this time we cannot add information about unpublished articles in this handbook however the table of contents will continue to grow as additional articles pass through the review process and are added to the site Please note that the online publication date for this handbook is the date that the first article in the title was published online Roman Britain is a critical area of research within the provinces of the Roman empire Within the last 15 20 years the study of Roman Britain has been transformed through an enormous amount of new and interesting work which is not reflected in the main stream literature An Imperial Possession David Mattingly, 2007-07-26 Part of the Penguin History of Britain series An Imperial Possession is the first major narrative history of Roman Britain for a generation David Mattingly draws on a wealth of new findings and knowledge to cut through the myths and misunderstandings that so commonly surround our beliefs about this period From the rebellious chiefs and druids who led native British resistance to the experiences of the Roman military leaders in this remote dangerous outpost of Europe this book explores the reality of life in occupied Britain within the context of the shifting fortunes of the Roman Empire Communities and Connections Chris Gosden, Helena Hamerow, Philip de Jersey, Gary Lock, 2007-11-08 For almost forty years the study of the Iron Age in Britain has been dominated by Professor Sir Barry Cunliffe Between the 1960s and 1980s he led a series of large scale excavations at famous sites including the Roman baths at Bath Fishbourne Roman palace and Danebury hillfort which revolutionized our understanding of Iron Age society and the interaction between this world of barbarians and the classical civilizations of the Mediterranean His standard text on Iron Age Communities in Britain is in its fourth edition and he has published groundbreaking volumes of synthesis on The Ancient Celts OUP 1997 and on the peoples of the Atlantic coast Facing the Ocean OUP 2001 This volume brings together papers from more than thirty of Professor Cunliffe s colleagues and students to mark his retirement from the Chair of European Archaeology at the University of Oxford a post which he has held since 1972 The breadth of the contributions extending over 800 years and ranging from the Atlantic fringes to the eastern Mediterranean is testimony to Barry Cunliffe s own extraordinarily wide interests Daily Life in Arthurian Britain Deborah J. Shepherd, 2013-08-12 This book surveys current archaeological and historical thinking about the dimly understood characteristics of daily life in Great Britain during the fifth and sixth centuries. Arthurian legends are immensely popular and well known despite the lack of reliable documentation about this time period in Britain. As a result, historians depend upon archaeologists to accurately describe life during these two centuries of turmoil when Britons suffered displacement by Germanic immigrants. Daily Life in Arthurian Britain examines cultural change in Britain through the fifth and sixth centuries, anachronistically known as The Dark Ages, with a focus on the fate of Romano-British culture, demographic change in the northern and western border lands, and the impact of the Germanic immigrants later known as the Anglo-Saxons. The book coalesces many threads of current knowledge and opinion from leading historians and archaeologists, describing household composition, rural and urban organization, food production, architecture, fashion, trades, and occupations, social classes, education, political organization, warfare, and religion in Arthurian times. The few available documentary sources are analyzed for the cultural and historical value of their information.

Garum and Salsamenta Curtis, 2018-07-17 Fermented fish products fulfilled multiple functions in Graeco-Roman society. They were a source of nutrition, a medicine with both dietetic and therapeutic value, and a commodity of trade. Their production and commerce provided employment, even wealth, for many individuals in the western and eastern provinces of the Roman Empire. The work defines ancient salt fish products and clarifies their relationship with modern counterparts. Following discussion of the perceived and actual utility of these products in human and veterinary medicine, the author, employing literary, archaeological, epigraphical, papyrological, and numismatic evidence, provides a province-by-province survey of the areas which produced and exported them. The book closes with a discussion of the social status of those involved in their manufacture and trade, the methods used to market them, and their fate in the post-classical period. This study explores an important facet of the Roman economy, having continuity with the modern world.

Parasite and Disease Spread by Major Rivers on Earth Heinz Mehlhorn, Sven Klimpel, 2019-11-12 This book focuses on waterborne pathogens and significant diseases occurring along major rivers around the globe, including key examples like the Amazon, Mekong River, and Nile. Written by leading international experts, it offers unique insights into local riverine infection risks in times of global warming and addresses these through advances in diagnosis, health management, and the development of simple but effective control measures. It also sheds light on why former societies collapsed due to transmitted diseases during periods of climate change, droughts, and floods, to help establish effective preventive measures for the future. The book appeals to a wide readership, from scientists in the field of parasitology, infectious diseases, and epidemiology to healthcare managers and general readers with an interest in pathogen spread along the largest rivers on earth. It particularly highlights past and current control mechanisms in times of global warming and assesses potential future health hazards.

Early Byzantine Ireland Bernard Mulholland, 2021-12-01 This research was conducted towards an MA in Byzantine Archaeology and Text 2004 at the Institute of Byzantine Studies in

Queen's University Belfast It is published with the aim of presenting this evidence to a wider audience and to inform future research by others in this field of study The archaeological and historical evidence presented and analysed is surprisingly diverse and relatively plentiful and arguably also compelling Is there any evidence for contacts between the Eastern Roman or Byzantine empire and Ireland and if so what form does that evidence take This book does much to inform that debate

The Roman Fort of Vindolanda P T Bidwell, 2014-06-15 This work is principally an account of excavations carried out at Vindolanda in 1980 but also reviews the available evidence for the history of the fort and vicus Early timber forts were succeeded by a stone fort in the Hadrianic period perhaps in c 122 4 Reconstruction of some interior buildings were erected in the northern part of the praetentura they are thought to have been houses accommodating a civilian work force under military control West of the fort lay a number of buildings apparently serving as a military annexe rather than civilian vicus The fort was almost entirely rebuilt in c 223 5 retaining only parts of the original west and east walls After a delay of about a decade when part of the garrison was probably posted elsewhere a double barrack block was erected in the north east corner of the fort possibly to accommodate cavalry The building underwent a number of alterations and remained in use until c 400 There are slight indications of activity on the site subsequent to that date Rebuilding of the fort in c 223 5 was accompanied by construction of an extensive vicus which was largely abandoned by the last quarter of the third century Foremost amongst the finds was a fragment of a military diploma issued to a soldier of cohors Tungrorum There were numerous objects of iron and copper alloy A considerable quantity of pottery was recovered from a sequence of third and fourth century deposits Coin finds from the fort and vicus are compared and their significance discussed

From Hispalis to Ishbiliyya: The Ancient Port of Seville, from the Roman Empire to the End of the Islamic Period (45 BC - AD 1248) Carlos Cabrera Tejedor, 2019-07-31 This monograph focuses on the history and development of the topography layout and facilities of the ancient port of Seville located in the lower Guadalquivir River Basin between the 1st century BC and the 13th century AD Until now despite its commercial importance little has been known about the port's exact position layout and facilities

Aspects of Industry in Roman Yorkshire and the North Pete Wilson, Jennifer Price, 2003-03-27 At the frontiers of the Roman Empire military settlements had a profound influence on local crafting traditions Legions were not just fighting units they contained a large number of craftsmen and the fortress would have been a centre of manufacturing activity A timber legionary fortress for example required vast numbers of nails many of which would have been made by legionary smiths on site and an army of thousands would require many more pots shoes and tents than could be produced by local domestic potters and leather workers But can all developments in local craft and industry be seen as a result of the appearance of the Roman army The ten papers in this volume focus on craft production in Roman Yorkshire and the evidence for the role of the army in local manufacturing activities Several papers examine broad questions surrounding the organisation and scale of production in urban and rural areas Others consider the local evidence for individual materials and production processes including those associated with pottery glass copper alloys non ferrous metals leather jet and building stone

Sociological Studies in Roman History Keith Hopkins, 2018 Collected essays by Cambridge sociologist Keith Hopkins one of the most radical innovative and influential Roman historians of his generation Gallia Belgica Edith Mary Wightman, 1985-01-01 The Roman Impact on the Economy of the Lower Germanic Limes Region Erik Timmerman, 2023-09-25 The remarkable economic performance of the Roman Empire is now widely acknowledged Yet there is still much debate about its interpretation Although this debate is mainly conducted at the empire wide level regional syntheses are indispensable to its further advancement This book contributes to that purpose by providing a comprehensive account of the Roman impact on the economy of the Lower Germanic Limes region By drawing on a large number of scattered publications and archaeological datasets the work demonstrates that Roman rule also led to important economic developments in a part of the empire that was remote from its Mediterranean heartland Roman Gaul and Germany Anthony King, 1990-01-01 Looks at Roman ruins in France and Germany including recent finds and describes what life was like under the reign of the Roman Empire The Romanization of Britain Martin Millett, 1992-06-11 This book sets out to provide a new synthesis of recent archaeological work in Roman Britain Ships of the Port of London Peter Marsden, 2014-07-15 This report is the first full study of the remains of ships and boats used in the port of London from the first to the eleventh century AD Using evidence from the vessels from the waterfronts and from trade goods Peter Marsden has reconstructed the design and use of these ancient ships and brought together for the first time the accumulated evidence of over 30 years of archaeological research The remains of three substantial vessels are discussed Blackfriars ship 1 the earliest known seagoing sailing ship yet found in northern Europe the New Guy's House boat a river barge from the second century and the County Hall ship discovered in 1910 and dating from the fourth century Using these and fragments of different types of clinker built vessels found in the Thames the author examines the pattern of shipbuilding in northern Europe with the conclusion that London was the meeting point for several shipbuilding traditions of which the primary Roman tradition in northern Europe was Celtic The growth of trade from Roman times to the fifth and sixth centuries when London was deserted and from its renewal in the seventh century to the end of the eleventh century is examined through the evidence of the remains of imported goods together with the changing function of the port and the development of berthing practices The Archaeology of Stone D P S Peacock, 2013-04-15 This report considers retention and processing policies evaluates the needs of stone identification and provenancing and examines ways of recording technological traces of stone working or use

Hoover masterfully weaves a story of hope and healing, reminding us that even in the darkest of times, the human spirit can succeed. Uncover the Best : Taylor Jenkins Reids "The Seven Husbands of Evelyn Hugo" This spellbinding historical fiction novel unravels the life of Evelyn Hugo, a Hollywood icon who defies expectations and societal norms to pursue her dreams. Reids compelling storytelling and compelling characters transport readers to a bygone era, immersing them in a world of glamour, ambition, and self-discovery. Roman Shipping And Trade Britain And The Rhine Provinces : Delia Owens "Where the Crawdads Sing" This captivating coming-of-age story follows Kya Clark, a young woman who grows up alone in the marshes of North Carolina. Owens spins a tale of resilience, survival, and the transformative power of nature, entrancing readers with its evocative prose and mesmerizing setting. These top-selling novels represent just a fraction of the literary treasures that have emerged in 2023. Whether you seek tales of romance, adventure, or personal growth, the world of literature offers an abundance of compelling stories waiting to be discovered. The novel begins with Richard Papen, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a masterful and thrilling novel that will keep you guessing until the very end. The novel is a cautionary tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
