In this celebration of women's creative endeavour Alicia Foster explores the achievement of these artists. Those included range from the famous to the little known from Mary Beale to Tracey Emin from Eileen Agar to Rachel Whiteread. In four chronological introductory essays Alicia Foster discusses the changes in the position of women artists from the seventeenth century when they were restricted in their choice of subject matter and medium and achieved little recognition to the present day art world which encompasses a dazzling array of women painters, sculptors, conceptual artists and video and film makers. The author brings the latest critical analysis to bear on women's art, introducing the major developments in its history, its interpretation and reception. Arranged alphabetically within the four sections, texts on each artist survey her life, work and exhibition history and give an informed insight into her individual contribution. A concise bibliography and listing of women printmakers represented in the Tate provide an invaluable addition to this fascinating book. Alicia Foster specialises in the work of women artists and has published on Victorian women artists, fashion and artistic identity. She is the author of Gwen John in the British Artists series (Artbibliographies Modern, 2004), Flash Art (2008), Annual Bibliography of Modern Art (Museum of Modern Art (New York, N.Y.), Library, 2001), If on a Winter's Night ... Roni Horn ... Roni Horn, Urs Stahel, 2003. To enter Roni Horn's realm requires courage. But you only become aware of this after the fact when it's already too late to back away to erase the ever-repeating images from your mind. Attracted by the endless pictures of water or blurring images of clouds and clowns seduced by dozens of young girl faces and pairs of eyes, you enter her realm somewhat unsuspectingly. And then the lock clicks behind you almost silently and you are standing all alone in front of a work that upon closer inspection suddenly seems rather dry and reserved, perhaps even repetitive. But somehow you know it's not. In this volume Elisabeth Lebovici, Bell Hooks, Thierry de Duve, Urs Stahel, Paolo Herkenhoff and Barbara Kruger contribute essays on the elusive work of Roni Horn. Through their essays begins a dialogue with a work that at first seems eloquent because of its sequential polyphony but grows increasingly complex with the realization that it breaks almost immediately with any suggested narratives. Poetry in Painting Helene Cixous, 2012-04-04. The first book by Helene Cixous on painting and the contemporary arts. These 11 chapters bring together Helene Cixous's writings about specific contemporary artists and artworks. Neither simply art criticism nor critical essays, Cixous responds to these: Roni Horn, Ann Veronica Janssens, Mike Kelley, Mike Nelson (California College of Arts and Crafts (San Francisco, Calif.). Wattis Institute for Contemporary Arts, 2003).
