Rubens The Artist As Collector:

Rubens Jeffrey M. Muller, 1989 Peter Paul Rubens assembled a collection of art that was for an artist and for the Netherlands of unprecedented richness and breadth Hundreds of pictures including masterpieces by Titian Bruegel and Van Dyck and prints and drawings as well as ancient sculptures coins and gems were joined with select works by Rubens himself and displayed in the artist's magnificent house in Antwerp This richly illustrated volume is the first to treat the significance of the collection in depth to document its major components and to catalogue all the individual pieces in it A contribution to Rubens studies which will be of lasting value Oliver Millar The Times Literary Supplement Muller fully and effectively combines the techniques of the social historian the intellectual historian and the art historian in order to examine the cultural assumptions and achievements of the period That the story of Rubens as a collector can cover so many aspects of the culture of seventeenth century Europe is vivid testimony to the efficacy of Muller's integration of the techniques and interests of the historian and the art historian Theodore K Rabb Journal of Interdisciplinary History A House of Art Kristin Lohse Belkin, Fiona Healy, Rubenshuis (Antwerp, Belgium), 2004 Gender, Politics, and Allegory in the Art of Rubens Lisa Rosenthal, 2005-09-05 Gender Politics and Allegory in the Art of Peter Paul Rubens examines the intertwined relationship between paintings of family and marriage and of war peace and statehood by the Flemish master Drawing extensively upon recent critical and gender theory Lisa Rosenthal reshapes our view of Rubens works and of the interpretive practices through which we engage them Close readings offer new interpretations of canonical images while bringing into view other powerful works which are less familiar The focus on gender serves as a catalyst that enables an original way of reading visual allegory giving it a dynamic multivalence undiscovered by traditional iconographic methods Jeffrey M. Muller, Rubens : the Artist as Collector , The Patron's Payoff Jonathan K. Nelson, Richard J. Zeckhauser, 2014-03-10 An analysis of Italian Renaissance art from the perspective of the patrons who made conspicuous commissions this text builds on three concepts from the economics of information signaling signposting and stretching to develop a systematic methodology for assessing the meaning of patronage Rubens and the Eloquence of Drawing Catherine H. Lusheck, 2017-08-07 Rubens and the Eloquence of Drawing re-examines the early graphic practice of the preeminent northern Baroque painter Peter Paul Rubens Flemish 1577 1640 in light of early modern traditions of eloquence particularly as promoted in the late sixteenth and early seventeenth century Flemish Neostoic circles of philologist Justus Lipsius 1547 1606 Focusing on the roles that rhetorical and pedagogical considerations played in the artist's approach to disegno during and following his formative Roman period 1600 08 this volume highlights Rubens's high ambitions for the intimate medium of drawing as a primary site for generating meaningful and original ideas for his larger artistic enterprise As in the Lipsian realm of writing personal letters the humanist activity then described as a cognate activity to the practice of drawing a Senecan approach to eclecticism a commitment to emulation and an Aristotelian concern for joining form to content all played important roles Two chapter long studies of individual drawings serve to demonstrate the relevance of these interdisciplinary rhetorical concerns to Rubens's early practice of drawing. Focusing on Rubens's Medea Fleeing with Her Dead Children (Los Angeles Getty Museum and Kneeling Man, Rotterdam Museum Boijmans Van Beuningen), these close looking case studies demonstrate Rubens's commitments to creating new models of eloquent drawing and to highlighting his own status as an inimitable maker. Demonstrating the force and quality of Rubens's intellect in the medium then most associated with the closest ideas of the artist, such designs were arguably created as more robust pedagogical and preparatory models that could help strengthen art itself for a new and often troubled age.

Early Modern Women in the Low Countries Susan Broomhall, Jennifer Spinks, 2016-05-13 Combining historical, historiographical, museological, and touristic analysis, this study investigates how late medieval and early modern women of the Low Countries expressed themselves through texts, art, architecture, and material objects; how they were represented by contemporaries; and how they have been interpreted in modern academic and popular contexts. Broomhall and Spinks analyse late medieval and early modern women's opportunities to narrate their experiences and ideas, as well as the processes that have shaped their representation in the heritage and cultural tourism of the Netherlands and Belgium today. The authors study female authored objects such as familial and political letters, dolls, houses, account books, visual sources, funeral monuments, and buildings commissioned by female patrons, and further artworks, as well as heritage sites, streetscapes, souvenirs, and clothing with gendered historical resonances. Employing an innovative range of materials, from written sources to artworks, material objects, heritage sites, and urban precincts, the authors argue that interpretations of late medieval and early modern women's experiences by historians and art scholars interact with presentations by cultural and heritage tourism providers in significant ways that deserve closer interrogation by feminist researchers.

Canons and Values Larry Silver, Kevin Terraciano, 2019-08-27 A critical rethinking of the way canons are defined, constructed, dismantled, and revised. A century ago, all art was evaluated through the lens of European classicism and its tradition. This volume explores and questions the foundations of the European canon, offers a critical rethinking of ancient and classical art, and interrogates the canons of cultures and regions that have often been left at the margins of art history. It underscores the historical and geographical diversity of canons and the local values underlying them. Twelve international scholars consider how canons are constructed and contested, focusing on the relationship between canonical objects and the value systems that shape their hierarchies. Deploying an array of methodologies, including archaeological investigations, visual analysis, and literary critique, the authors examine canon formation throughout the world, including Africa, India, East Asia, Mesoamerica, South America, ancient Egypt, classical Greece, and Europe. Global studies of art, which are dismantling the traditionally Eurocentric canon, promise to make art history more inclusive. But enduring canons cannot be dismissed. This volume raises new questions about the importance of canons, including those from outside Europe, for the wider discipline of art history.

The European Nobility, 1400-1800 Jonathan Dewald, 1996-05-16 An authoritative and accessible survey of the European nobility over four centuries Drawn by the Brush Peter C. Sutton, Peter Paul Rubens, Marjorie E. Wieseman, Nico van Hout, 2004-01-01 Oil sketches by Peter Paul Rubens created at speed and in the heat of invention with a colorful loaded brush convey all the spontaneity of the great Flemish painter's creative process This ravishing book draws from both private and public collections to present in full color 40 of Rubens's oil sketches Viewers will find in these informal paintings an enchanting intimacy and gain a new appreciation of Rubens's capacity for invention and improvisation and of his special genius for dramatic design and coloristic brilliance The book investigates the role of the oil sketch in Rubens's work the development of the artist's themes and narratives in his multiple sketches and the history of the appreciation of his oil sketches It also explores some of the unique aspects of his techniques and materials By revealing the oil sketches as the most direct record of Rubens's creative process the book presents him as the greatest and most fluent practitioner of this vibrant and vital medium François Boucher and the Art of Collecting in Eighteenth-Century France Jessica Priebe, 2021-11-29

While earlier studies have focused predominantly on artist François Boucher's artistic style and identity this book presents the first full length interdisciplinary study of Boucher's prolific collection of around 13 500 objects including paintings sculpture prints drawings porcelain shells minerals and other imported curios It discusses the types of objects he collected the networks through which he acquired them and their spectacular display in his custom designed studio at the Louvre where he lived and worked for nearly two decades This book explores the role his collection played in the development of his art his studio his friendships and the burgeoning market for luxury goods in mid eighteenth century France In doing so it sheds new light on the relationship between Boucher's artistic and collecting practices which attracted both praise and criticism from period observers The book will appeal to scholars working in art history museum studies and French history
