Shame And Humiliation Presidential Decision Making On Vietnam A Psychoanalytic Interpretation:

Shame and Humiliation Blema S. Steinberg, 1996 Blema Steinberg adopts a psychoanalytical approach in her examination of the decision making of Lyndon Johnson Richard Nixon and Dwight Eisenhower during the Vietnam War She argues that personality traits such as narcissism influenced critical decisions they made about U S intervention in Vietnam Shame and Humiliation Blema S. Steinberg, 1996-04-16 Steinberg focuses on the narcissistic personality identifying it as intensely self involved and preoccupied with success and recognition as a substitute for parental love She asserts that narcissistic leaders are most likely to use force when they fear being humiliated for failing to act and when they need to restore their diminished sense of self worth Providing case studies of Johnson Nixon and Eisenhower Steinberg describes the childhood maturation and career of each president documenting key personality attributes and then discusses each one s Vietnam policy in light of these traits She contends that Johnson authorized the bombing of Vietnam in part because he feared the humiliation that would come from inaction and that Nixon escalated U S intervention in Cambodia in part because of his low sense of self esteem Steinberg contrasts these two presidents with Eisenhower who was psychologically secure and was therefore able to carry out a careful and thoughtful analysis of the problem he faced in Indochina Shame and Humiliation reveals how personality traits affect our perception of reality and offers a powerful demonstration of the impact of psychodynamics on presidential decision making Psychoanalysis, International Relations, and Diplomacy Vamik D.

Levy,William R. Thompson,2011-09-15 Written by leading scholars in the field Causes of War provides the first comprehensive analysis of the leading theories relating to the origins of both interstate and civil wars Utilizes historical examples to illustrate individual theories throughout Includes an analysis of theories of civil wars as well as interstate wars one of the only texts to do both Written by two former International Studies Association Presidents Who Fights for Reputation Keren Yarhi-Milo,2018 How psychology explains why a leader is willing to use military force to protect or salvage reputation In Who Fights for Reputation Keren Yarhi Milo provides an original framework based on insights from psychology to explain why some political leaders are more willing to use military force to defend their reputation than others Rather than focusing on a leader s background beliefs bargaining skills or biases Yarhi Milo draws a systematic link between a trait called self monitoring and foreign policy behavior She examines self monitoring among national leaders and advisers and shows that while high self monitors modify their behavior strategically to cultivate image enhancing status low self monitors are less likely to change their behavior in response to reputation concerns Exploring self monitoring through case studies of foreign policy crises during the terms of U S presidents Carter Reagan and Clinton Yarhi Milo disproves the notion that hawks are always more likely than doves to fight for reputation Instead Yarhi Milo demonstrates that a decision maker s propensity for impression management is directly associated with the use of force to restore a reputation for resolve on the international stage Who Fights for Reputation offers a brand new understanding of the pivotal influence that psychological factors have on political leadership military engagement and the protection of public prestige Passion, Politics, and the Past Vladimir Donskoi,2008 This book shows that foreign policy decision making is not as cool minded as it is deemed to be It analyses how the lessons of history influence decision making and argues that during crises a decision maker's affect (anger and fear) can bias him towards straightforward responses of the fight or flight type. This insight also prompts a fresh answer to the question: what analogies are likely to be picked from the vast pool of historical events? a) behaviourally straightforward analogies with forceful imagery and clear-cut affective connotations b) analogies that are already established in the political discourse c) exceedingly grave analogies d) many different analogies with congruent inferences. Thus politicians tend to draw analogies that are affectively salient e.g. between Saddam Hussein and Hitler rather than factually accurate and this explains why such analogies are often far-fetched. The case on which the model is then tested is the U.S. decision making during the 1st week of the Korean War. This book will be especially interesting for scholars and practitioners in the field of politics as well as for everyone who wants to understand how emotions influence decisions.
