Shaping the Urban Landscape Gilbert Arthur Stelter, Gilbert A. Stelter, Alan F. J. Artibise, 1982 This is a collection of essays focusing on the process of city building in Canada. The authors weigh the relative broad social economic and technological trends as they attempt to explain the shaping of this urban landscape.

Shaping the urban landscape Gilbert A. Stelter, Canadian City Gilbert A. Stelter, Alan F. J. Artibise, 1984 Focuses on urban society with essays on social structure, the family, ethnicity and immigration and religion. This title includes other sections that are devoted to urban growth, the physical environment and urban government and reform.

Changing Canada Wallace Clement, Leah F. Vosko, 2003 Changing Canada examines political transformations, welfare state restructuring, international boundaries and contexts, the new urban experience and creative resistance. The authors question dominant ways of thinking and promote alternative ways of understanding and explaining Canadian society and politics that encourage progressive social change. They examine how the evolution of capitalism is producing new types of transformations and new forms of resistance and show that aspects of the state and the wider society are being contested.

They also discuss the often paradoxical or contradictory effects of various social forces such as the liberating but also constraining features of new communications technologies, new employment norms and new household forms.

American Empire and the Canadian Oil Sands George A. Gonzalez, 2016-04-08 Throughout the US oil and gas shale are being hydrofracked to produce petroleum and natural gas. Oil or tar sands from Canada is being processed thereby generating large amounts of crude. This book places the unconventional fossil fuels revolution that is taking place in North America within the context of great power politics.

Through Sunshine and Shadow Sharon Anne Cook, 1995 The Ontario Woman's Christian Temperance Union (WCTU) quickly evolved from an organization established to eradicate the consumption of alcohol to become concerned with broader social problems. Sharon Cook shows that the WCTU nurtured a distinct feminist culture that promoted the family, children and an important public role for women.

The Limits of Labour David Bright, 2011-11-01 In a few short decades before the First World War, Calgary was transformed from a frontier outpost into a complex industrial metropolis. With industrialization, there emerged a diverse and equally complex working class. David Bright explores the various levels of class formation and class identity in the city to argue that Calgary's reputation as a prewar centre of labour conservatism is in need of revision. Bright also delineates the trials of the Calgary labour movement in the 1920s. Internal divisions and dissent prevented the movement from realizing the potential strength of the working class. Instead, even as local capitalism restructured itself, political and industrial labour organizations wilfully fragmented their own base of support. In particular, they failed to address the concerns and needs of the growing number of unemployed in the city.

a neglect that foreshadowed events of the 1930s This failure left the labour movement unable to meet the challenge of the Great Depression In part at least the demise of labour as a viable political alternative in Calgary paved the way for the rise of Social Credit Using Calgary as a model The Limits of Labour reasserts the need to place class formation at the heart of the development of western Canada and provides an historical context to the renewed struggle of labour for social justice in the 1990s

Vancouver Past: Essays in Social History Robert A. J. McDonald, Jean Barman, 1986-01-01 Focusing on Vancouver's social history the essays written for this special edition of BC Studies treat hitherto neglected areas of the city's past and bring new insights into how its residents lived and worked Receiving particular attention is the socio economic and residential structure of Vancouver with one author arguing that the city's economy created an urban working class which was at once more complex and politically more conservative than that of the highly polarized communities on Vancouver Island and in the Interior
