Shapiro Radiation Protection Paper:

Classic Papers in Modern Diagnostic Radiology Adrian M.K. Thomas, Arpan K. Banerjee, Uwe Busch, 2005-09-02 I am very pleased to have been asked to write the foreword to this book. The technical advances in diagnostic radiology in the last few decades have transformed clinical practice and have been nothing short of astonishing. The subject of diagnostic radiology is now very large and radiology departments are involved in all areas of modern patient care. The defining event in modern radiology and arguably the most significant development in radiology since Wilhelm Röntgen discovered X-rays was the invention of the CT scanner in the 1970s. The CT scanner introduced modern cross-sectional imaging and also digital imaging. We now have MRI and ultrasound and these techniques are replacing many traditional X-ray procedures. The developments in radiology have been the result of a fruitful interaction between the basic sciences, clinical medicine, and the manufacturers. This can be seen by looking at the various sources of these publications. Change is produced by the interactions between the various disciplines. The editors have had a very difficult task in selecting the key discoveries and descriptions. The radiological literature is very large. Medical imaging continues to develop rapidly and these papers are the foundations of our current practice. HZETRN, 1991 Radiation Protection Management, 1999 Information Resources in Toxicology P.J. Serves as an all-in-one resource for toxicology information. New edition includes information on publishers, grants, and other funding opportunities, physical hazards, patent literature, and technical reports. Plants have become larger and are often situated in or close to densely populated areas. Increased hazard of loss of life or property is continually highlighted with incidents such as Flixborough, Bhopal, Chernobyl, Three Mile Island, the Phillips 66 incident, and Piper Alpha, to name a few. The field of Loss Prevention is and continues to be of supreme importance to countless companies, municipalities, and governments around the world because of the trend for processing plants to become larger and often be situated in or close to densely populated areas, thus increasing the hazard of loss of life.
