My Muslim Community:

Christian Minister Converts To Islam! Yusuf Estes, Indonesian Muslims in a Global World Teuku Zulfikar, 2017-08-21 Muslim communities in non Muslim countries and particularly their younger members have been an interesting topic in academia recently Many books and journal articles have been written on the identity issues of young Muslims and this book serves to enrich previous literature on this important issue It highlights Indonesian Muslims experience of living in between their home and their host society namely Australia However the study differs in some respects from other books on similar issues describing Muslim identity through the viewpoints of the sacred book of Islam the Qur an and also as described by scholars investigating the identity construction of young Muslims The book suggests an essentialized understanding of Muslim identity as described in the sacred text but at the same time recognizes that discourses and agencies influence the way in which a community projects itself The Idea of Islam Ziauddin Sardar, Robin Yassin-Kassab, 2012 A quarterly magazine of ideas and issues showcasing ground breaking thinking on Islam and what it means to be a Muslim in a rapidly changing interconnected world The Global Muslim Community at a Crossroads Abdul Basit Ph.D., 2012-01-16 Tackling a subject that is as timely as it is complex this expert work examines the turmoil inside Muslim communities helping outsiders to understand and insiders to examine ways in which Islam can be reinterpreted for a modern world The Global Muslim Community at a Crossroads Understanding Religious Beliefs Practices and Infighting to End the Conflict is an illuminating work Written by an eminent psychologist who was raised as a Muslim in India and now resides in the United States it examines the core reasons for the current state of affairs in Muslim communities explaining the psychological underpinnings of Muslim religion and practices and the reasons they can fuel violence Drawing on the editor s exposure to Eastern and Western cultures and his longstanding interest in the study of comparative world religions this impartial analysis takes a multidimensional approach to explaining the current plight of Muslim countries It candidly discusses issues such as the influence of Islamic schools the negative and positive roles of Ulema religious scholars a lack of critical inquiry into religious thought Sharia and the status of women in Islam Finally there are positive suggestions about a road to recovery explaining how Muslim communities can address the interlocking problems they face while retaining the positive aspects of their beliefs Muslim Travellers Dale F. Eickelman, James Piscatori, 2013-11-05 Pilgrimage travel for learning visits to shrines exile and labour migration shape the religious imagination and in turn are shaped by it Some travel such as pilgrimage explicitly intended for religious purposes has equally important economic and political consequences Other travel not primarily motivated by religious concerns and thus neglected by many scholars nonetheless profoundly influences religious symbols metaphors practices and senses of community These studies encompassing Muslim societies from Malaysia to West Africa also suggest how encounters with Muslim others have been as important in shaping community self definition as encounters with European others This volume brings together historians social scientists and jurists concerned with pilgrimage scholarly travel and migration in both medieval and contemporary Muslim societies and explores basic issues Can Muslim travel be regarded as a distinct form of social action What role does religious doctrine play in motivating travel and how do doctrinal interpretations differ across time and place What are the strengths and limitations of various approaches to understanding the transnational and local significance of pilgrimage migration and other forms of travel An image of Muslim tradition and change in local communities in relation to travel emerges which competes with the myth of the universality of the Islamic community

The Changing World of a Bombay Muslim Community, 1870 - 1945 Salima Tyabji,2024-01-16 Muslims formed a disparate and unwieldy community in Bombay in the nineteenth century The Islam that was professedly held in common by various groups could barely provide a sense of unity or cohesion to people so widely diverse in terms of language customs and also of forms and practices of belief By the middle of the nineteenth century a class of wealthy ship owners ship builders and merchants belonging to the varied communities that constituted the city of which Muslims formed an important part had emerged This class was outward looking modern and generally reformist in outlook Gujarati or Maharashtrian its goals of social reform education as well as political awareness were gradually beginning to be perceived as goals held across communities and increasingly across different regions The questions that were being raised in the social turmoil of the period amongst Hindus were over issues of female education the age of marriage widow remarriage and female seclusion These issues were not foreign to the Muslim community and the part played by Muslim leaders in Bombay in discussing and negotiating them was not an insignificant one taking into account the size and relative backwardness of the community Within this context this book traces the evolving identity of a Bombay family and its changing social and political views in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries using three main sources their family journals an individual memoir journal and letters written home from Europe
