Önder Çakırtaş, 2024-12-24 This scholarly volume delves into the manner in which British Muslims articulate their cultural, social, and religious identities through theatrical productions in 21st century Britain and examines their portrayal within these performances. The study investigates the factors influencing the emergence and evolution of Islamic theatre in Britain, providing an in-depth analysis of plays by British playwrights of both Muslim and non-Muslim origins that have shaped the trajectory of British Islamic theatre from the late 20th century to the present. Çakırtaş critically examines how British playwrights, predominantly of Muslim origin but also including some of non-Muslim origin, depict Muslim identity and culture from their unique perspectives, particularly in the context of post-9/11 society. Adopting a comprehensive approach to Islamic playwriting and performance, this book highlights the accomplishments and contributions of contemporary British playwrights primarily from Muslim backgrounds. This study will be of significant interest to scholars and students in theatre studies as well as related disciplines such as Islamic studies, sociology, and political science.

2007 Brook Stowe, 2007-03-01 Selection of essays and plays. Dancing the Deep Hum, One Woman's Ideas about How to Live in a Dancing, Singing Universe. Connie Tyler, 2009-03 In Dancing the Deep Hum, Connie Tyler examines the sometimes delightful and sometimes painful lessons she has learned in her sixty-five years of life and humbly presents some ideas about how to live life joyfully. Weaving in and out between the personal and the public, the individual and the whole, the universe, the infinite and the here and now, she searches for the definition of that unnamable something that hums. Using her own experiences and other people's stories found in books, film, and the media to suggest a set of principles for living that just might bring us personal happiness while moving us toward a solution to the world's ecological and social justice problems.
