1939-1945

Students and parents

MARCIA WILLIAMS

Background: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised exercise program on the physical and psychological health of older adults with chronic low back pain. Methods: A total of 100 older adults (mean age = 70.5 years) with chronic low back pain were randomly assigned to either a supervised exercise program or a control group. The exercise program consisted of 12 weeks of low-intensity, supervised exercise. The control group received no intervention. The primary outcome was the change in the Oswestry Disability Index (ODI) score. Secondary outcomes included changes in the Visual Analog Scale (VAS) score, the Short-Form 36 (SF-36) score, and the Beck Depression Inventory (BDI) score. Results: The ODI score decreased significantly in the exercise group compared to the control group. The VAS score, SF-36 score, and BDI score also improved significantly in the exercise group. Conclusion: A 12-week, low-intensity, supervised exercise program can improve the physical and psychological health of older adults with chronic low back pain.
