

Gather material for a new book to be published by the international visual arts publisher, RotoVision. No Brief: Graphic Designers' Personal Projects will feature the work graphic designers undertake when creating their own brief, either for self-promotion or to explore an interesting form or style.

A wide range of material is required: from posters, flyers, invitations and portfolio exhibits to brochures, books, packaging and websites – even animation and music. Projects in any media will be considered for inclusion, as long as the work shows imagination and originality, and is self-initiated rather than the result of a client brief.

The aim is to demonstrate and celebrate the most creative, innovative and inspiring graphic design of the moment, as well as the individual tastes and alternative skills of graphic designers.
