Nutritional Oncology David Heber,Zhaoping Li,Vay Liang,2021-08-23 Nutritional Oncology Nutrition in Cancer Prevention Treatment and Survivorship presents evidence based approaches to the study and application of nutrition in all phases of cancer including prevention treatment and survivorship There is a long history of interest in the role of nutrition in cancer but only in the last 50 years has this interdisciplinary field developed scientific evidence from a combination of population studies basic research and clinical studies Precision oncology targeted therapies and immunonutrition have led to advances in cancer treatment and prevention Highlighting insights from Precision Oncology and Precision Nutrition to improve cancer prevention treatment and survival is the core mission of this book The editors have over 40 years of clinical and research experience integrating science with practical advice based on available evidence for healthcare professionals while highlighting research vistas for the scientific community Features Comprehensive treatment of all aspects of nutrition and cancer including prevention response to treatment avoidance of relapse and promotion of quality of life for cancer survivors Examines alternative medicines and botanical dietary supplements and identifies hypotheses for future research based on science This book is written for doctors dietitians and other health care professional advising cancer patients cancer survivors and the general public Nutrition and the Cancer Patient ,2010 Nutritional Management of Cancer Treatment Effects Nagi B. Kumar,2012-02-18 Malnutrition and its related symptoms are both frequent and deleterious effects of cancer treatment Despite the importance of targeted nutritional interventions in ameliorating these effects however publications providing up to date information on novel nutritional approaches and strategies are lacking This book is intended to fill the void by describing and evaluating in detail the nutritional strategies that may be employed to alleviate a wide variety of cancer treatment effects The guidance provided will help to improve the survival and quality of life of cancer patients and has the potential to dramatically affect how evidence based clinical practice is established and improved over the coming decade The author is a distinguished expert in the field who has more than 25 years of experience in oncology nutrition and has been involved in establishing and implementing a Clinical Nutrition Oncology Program Nutritional Oncology George L. Blackburn,Vay Liang W. Go,John Milner,2011-05-02 Nutritional oncology is an increasingly active interdisciplinary field where cancer is investigated as both a systemic and local disease originating with the changes in the genome and progressing through a multi step process which may be influenced at many points in its natural history by nutritional factors that could impact the prevention of cancer the quality of life of cancer patients and the risk of cancer recurrence in the rapidly increasing population of cancer survivors Since the first edition of this book was published in 1999 the idea that there is a single gene pathway or single drug will provide a cure for cancer has given way to the general view that dietary environmental factors impact the progression of genetic and cellular changes in common forms of cancer This broad concept can now be investigated within a basic and clinical research context for specific types of cancer This book attempts to cover the current available knowledge in this new field of nutritional oncology written by invited experts This book attempts to provide not only the theoretical and research basis for nutritional oncology but will offer the medical oncologist and other members of multidisciplinary groups treating cancer patients practical information on nutrition assessment and nutritional regimens including micronutrient and phytochemical supplementation The editors hope that this volume will stimulate increased research education and patient application of the principles of nutritional oncology
