This book provides a review of the multitude of conservation concepts both from a scientific philosophical and social science perspective asking how we want to shape our relationships with nature as humans and providing guidance on which conservation approaches can help us to do this Nature conservation is a contested terrain and there is not only one idea about what constitutes conservation but many different ones which sometimes are conflicting Employing a conceptual and historical analysis this book sorts and interprets the differing conservation concepts with a special emphasis on narrative analysis as a means for describing human nature relationships and for linking conservation science to practice and to society at large Case studies illustrate the philosophical issues and help to analyse major controversies in conservation biology While the main focus is on Western ideas of conservation the book also touches upon non Western including indigenous concepts The approach taken in this book emphasises the often implicit strategic and societal dimensions of conservation concepts including power relations In finding a path through the multitude of concepts the book showcases that it is necessary to maintain the plurality of approaches in order to successfully address different situations and societal choices Overall this book highlights the very tension which conservation biology must withstand between science and society between what is possible and what we want individually or as a society or even more what is desirable Bringing some order into this multitude will support more efficient conservation and conservation biology This book will be of great interest to students and scholars studying nature conservation from a variety of disciplines including biology ecology anthropology sociology geography and philosophy It will also be of use to professionals wanting to gain an understanding of the broad spectrum of conservation concepts and approaches and when to apply them

Seventy Years of Birdwatching H.G Alexander,2010-10-30 This is a book about birdwatching birdwatchers and above all birds It is in some measure also a history of the development of modern ornithology in Britain although the author s birdwatching extended over parts of three continents Europe India and North America Seventy Years of Birdwatching is not truly an autobiography there is too little about the author in it though the personality of this exceptional shy and gentle man comes through H G Alexander began birdwatching in earnest in 1898 and has never stopped He has met or corresponded with most of the leading ornithologists of this century his first article in British Birds appeared in 1909 and it may surprise many to discover how much of practical ornithology that is deliberated today was debated and practised so many years ago During more than seventy years the author has witnessed important changes in resident and migrant bird populations in Britain Dungeness for example was almost as uninhabited as the moon when he first knew it and Kentish Plovers bred there by the score but Carrion Crows were a rarity Over the years he saw the gradual decline of the Red backed Shrike Corncrake and Wryneckbut he was instrumental in bringing one bird to Britain the hitherto undiscovered Willow Tit which he with others helped to identify Fifty years ago H G Alexander had already covered scores of six inch Ordnance Survey maps with his mapping records and these together with his notebooks and correspondence with contemporaries supply an absorbing glimpse of a birdwatching era that was fascinatingly like and yet unlike our own Perhaps this is why today s birdwatcher has only to turn the pages to be enthralled The Outlook ,1906 The Agricultural Gazette and Modern Farming ,1909
