The present Country Party chairman of parliament, Mr. Leon French, is expected to get one of the vacancies.

Mr. J. C. "Tim" Timmins (Tasmania) and Mr. Bruce Duncan (Queensland) are the most favoured candidates for the second vacancy.

Mr. French is expected to succeed Mr. Hughes as Deputy Leader of the Country Party.

Mr. Hughes has been one of the most energetic members in the House of Representatives.

He was minister responsible for the Open House when the design for the new House, designed by Mr. John Utzon, was approved in February, 1968.

Mr. Hughes said yesterday: "I expect that the House will be completed and that there will be a decision on the new House."

Mr. Utzon, having made that decision, the House of Representatives, which has been long overdue, has been long overdue.

At the time I had over the Open House, which has been long overdue, has been long overdue.

"You can depend on that I will be back for the official opening next year."

Royal Commission on terrorism?

From BRIAN JOHNS

CANBERRA, Tuesday.—The Federal Government is considering establishing a Royal Commission into political violence and terrorism in Australia.

The inquiry would be free to consider violence in the trade-union movement as well as the activities of right-wing Croatian extremists who are suspected of responsibility for the bomb explosions in Sydney on Sunday.

Mr. McMahon raised the idea of a Royal Commission this morning when Cabinet discussed the bombings.

He said he believed it would be the best way to settle public unrest.

Discussion of the idea only lasted minutes and Cabinet reached an firm decision.

But it is understood that there was general support for a Royal Commission among Cabinet members if the terms of reference were such that current police investigations were not impaired.

In reply to a question in the House of Representatives later, Mr. McMahon said he was not opposed to a Royal Commission.

The Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Bowen, was asked another question about

"a series of suspected murders, bombings and bushings" in the Ship-Panthers and Dockers' Union in Victoria.

He said any inquiry should take account of the whole spectrum of violence, including "industrial and political blackmail."

However, the Attorney-General, Senator Greenwood, said in the Senate that he thought it "would be highly prejudicial" to police investigations "to even contemplate an inquiry at this stage."

"Let us await the outcome of the police investigation and see what is forthcoming and then the matter will be considered," he said.

Mr. McMahon told Parliament that Senator Greenwood had been asked to prepare a paper on political violence and terrorism in Australia.

Senator Murphy

GOVT LOOKS AT THE IDEA

It is probable that a decision on whether to hold a Royal Commission will be taken on the basis of Cabinet consideration of Senator Greenwood's report.

Both Houses of Parliament debated the Sydney bombings today.

The Government faced heavy questioning in the House of Representatives and the Senate throughout question time on Croatian extremist activities.

The Leader of the Opposition, Mr. Whitlam, said the Sydney bomb incidents showed there were "threats to life and limb in Australia" on a scale which we have never had before.

He described the bombings as "the biggest mass crime in Australia."

Mr. Whitlam was moving an urgency motion calling on the Government to set up specialist intelligence and police organisations to combat terrorist activities.

The Leader of the Opposition in the Senate, Senator Murphy, said a Senate committee should investigate the "long history" of allegations of Croatian terrorism in Australia.

He said the Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs and Defence should investigate.

Allegations by Yugoslavians that there were in Australia bases, training camps and storage places for weapons as part of criminal activity against Yugoslavia.

Whether extremist or terrorist elements had engaged in violence or other illegal activity directed against representatives or property of the Yugoslav Government in Australia.

Squabble theory

MELBOURNE, Tuesday. — Melbourne detectives now believe that Saturday's bombings in Sydney were the result of a personal squabble.

Six Sydney detectives who flew to Melbourne on Monday are believed to be concentrating on this theory.

Since arriving in Melbourne they have questioned several Yugoslavians including two women.

FACED with an ever-increasing water problem Sydney City Council has at last decided to install the official meter. Now the Council Committee has recommended that meters for the water supply, beginning with an independent report, is needed and that a meter be prepared as the new system.

FIVE Bush Bros. (Pty) Ltd. 17 years and a Crown, now have a water meter. The Saturday afternoon news item, however, mentioned that the water meter was installed in the house of Mr. John Bush's property. The water is the one in the house of Mr. John Bush's property in NSW, the first in the world.

FOR 17 years a Council member has called a "bushy" and now the water meter is installed in the house of Mr. John Bush's property. The water is the one in the house of Mr. John Bush's property in NSW, the first in the world.
